HEW Wanted January Action

Board Plans September Hubbard Desegregation

Taking issue once again with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Sedalia Board of Education announced at its meeting Tuesday that Hubbard school will be desegregated next September in accordance with a plan submitted to the federal agency Feb. 16, 1972. HEW has ordered the board to desegregate the school by January.

Board President George Thompson said the board's attorney, William F. Brown, was authorized to inform HEW of the board's decision, which he did in a letter dated Tuesday. Thompson said the decision reflected "the unanimous feeling of the board." He also indicated the board's decision was based in part on a written report to the board by Superintendent of Schools Dr. T. J. Norris.

Norris told newsmen no funds to the school district could be cut as a result of the board's action.

Norris and Brown noted similar justifications for the board's decision. One area stressed by both men was the effect the mid-year move would have on the children involved. Norris said in his report to the board: "I believe the most important objection is the effect it would have on the children involved and their parents." Brown wrote, "It is the feeling of the Sedalia school board that to force these children to change schools in the middle of the year is detrimental not only to the children involved, but to the parents as well."

Norris' report quoted widely from a letter of protest sent to HEW by parents in the Hubbard area when that agency ordered the mid-year transition in late August. That letter alledged the transfer order would hamper the social, emotional and educational adjustment of children if done at mid-year; would disrupt the close home-school relationship; ignores the best interest of the children involved; and would be achieved with greater success if done next September, as the board originally planned.

Norris and Brown criticized HEW's attitude toward the children involved. Norris wrote: "The child has become a pawn in this issue and his best interests have been forgotten." Brown wrote: "The Sedalia school board deplores that the children have apparently become a pawn in the issue and that their best interests have consistently been ignored or totally forgotten."

Another point emphasized by Brown and Norris is HEW's alleged delay in responding to the board's plan for integration. According to Norris' report, a meeting between the Board of Education and HEW officials preceded the board's February proposal. Norris stated that at that time Thompson informed HEW representatives they had to rule on the acceptability of the board's plan prior to April 1. The school system's budget and tax rate are set in April and all new programs had to be included in the system's budget at that time, Thompson pointed out.

Norris' report further stated Dr. Lloyd Henderson, representing HEW, said the board would receive a reply to its proposal within a matter of weeks. However, Norris noted the only communications received the remainder of the school year were from HEW "two or three phone calls ..." asking questions about the plan.

In August, Norris said, "I received a telephone call from Mr. Mines (Kenneth Mines, HEW) during which he said, 'We are ready to substantially accept your plan, but there are a few questions we would like to discuss with the Board of Education." Norris said Mines suggested a meeting with the board. That meeting did not come about. Thompson was on vacation at that time, according to Norris' report, "and I thought it was important that he be present ..." Norris stated he and Mines "terminated our conversation without any definite decision about the meeting."

The next communication received from HEW, according to Norris account, was dated Aug. 24, 1972, ordering the desegregation of Hubbard by January. Norris told the board in his report that such action would involve transportation expenditures not figured in the budget and would "disrupt a transportation system that is new to us and create confusion ..." The action would also leave 10 full-time and four part-time teachers without employment, he said.

Brown's letter to HEW says, "Since the school board was in no position to anticipate the acceptance of the plan, quite naturally it was unable to make plans and arrangements accordingly, and the indecision in your department has placed an impossible burden upon the Sedalia School District."

Brown alledged HEW's delay in accepting the board's plan forced the board to transport some vocational-technical students to Warrensburg and Marshall for training. Under the board's plan a portion of Hubbard will be used as a vocational-technical facility.

Both Brown and Norris noted applications have already been made with the State Department of Education for state and federal funds for the vocational-technical training program at Hubbard. Unless the elementary school students are transferred to other schools by September, 1973, the vocational-technical program could not go into effect as planned that same year because no facility would be available.

In other action, Thompson announced that the deadline for completion of work at the junior high school has been extended again. The latest deadline had been Monday, which also would have meant that contractor Don Bron would have been replaced. However, according to Thompson, Don Buller, architect, recommended the deadline be extended. Thompson said Buller told the board Bron was near completion on the structure. Thompson speculated the final work on the building would be completed by Christmas. The board also voted 5-1 to pay Bron $29,106 for work completed on the school. Mrs. Bill Dugan voted against the payment.

Several changes were made in the board's policy booklet. The board voted to adopt the on-bus conduct rules set down by the State Department of Education. They also adopted a section on residency requirements stipulating students whose parents are not members of School District 200 must live with their legal guardians to attend school in the district. A new policy of investment was also accepted,

Bond Names His Successor

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — John Ashcroft, 30-year-old Springfield attorney, was tabbed by Missouri's Gov.-elect Christopher S. Bond, today to become state auditor Jan. 8.

Ashcroft will serve the remaining two years of Bond's term in the auditor's office.

Under Bond's administration, the office took a grading approach to the performance of state agencies, rather than just giving fiscal reports.

Ashcroft, unsuccessful congressional candidate in the GOP primary in the 7th District, said, "I think one should look beyond mere fiscal integrity...we should consider the efficiency of the office. I would hope to continue the professional approach established by Kit Bond and his office."

Ashcroft said he had no definite idea as to whom he would appoint as his chief auditor. Bond's top deputy, Robert L. James, 32, was named chief of the new Office of Administration.

Ashcroft, who sat at a news conference in Bond's office with his wife, Janet, is a Yale man, having graduated in 1964. He was graduated from the University of Chicago Law School in 1967, and Janet was graduated from the same school a year later.

Ashcroft, who narrowly lost to Gene Taylor, former national GOP committeeman, in the 7th District primary, is an associate professor at Southwest Missouri State University in Springfield, where he teaches business law.

"John Ashcroft is a man of great ability and will serve the state of Missouri with distinction as its next state auditor," Bond said.

"I am confident that John Ashcroft's well-rounded professional background makes him the kind of leader Missouri needs in the executive branch of state government.

"During the last two years, this office has been staffed by persons with educational and business backgrounds to make this office one of the finest state auditing operations in the nation," Bond added. "John will continue to the work we have begun in the auditor's office to bring professional, high quality auditing to the state of Missouri."

Ashcroft, at 30, is three years younger than the new governor. His age is the constitutional minimum.

There had been speculation on whether Bond or outgoing Gov. Warren E. Hearnes had the authority to name the new auditor. Hearnes had no comment Tuesday on his position.

"The law is specific that there is no auditor vacancy until I take office," Bond said. "I don't see any problem."

Others mentioned for the auditor's job included Greene County Prosecutor Dee Wampler and Springfield insurance executive Jerry Lumpe.

It was the third major appointment by the new governor.

He has named his chief auditor, Robert L. James, 32, as chief of the new Office of Administration, and a campaign worker,

Find Strange Soil

Prepare For Last Moon Exploration

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Two jubilant American adventurers prepared today for a farewell lunar exploration. But already aboard their lander Challenger was a new discovery — samples of intriguing orange soil possibly dating to the last fiery gasps of a dying moon.

Astronauts Eugene A. Cernan and Harrison H. Schmitt, in their last geology field trip in the moon valley of Taurus-Littrow today, take an eight-mile drive along the base of a high mountain and at the foot of wrinkled hills, using an electric car with a patched fender.

The astronauts, saying they "like to cover new ground," traveled a mile farther than planned on Tuesday night, gathering many bags of lunar samples, including scoops of the orange dust never before found on the moon.

The orange material was found during exploration of an ancient avalanche, 4.4 miles from the landing camp in Taurus-Littrow valley. By coincidence, it was found by Cernan, not Schmitt, a geologist and America's first professional scientist in space.

"Hey," exclaimed Cernan as he stumbled into the soil at the rim of a crater called Shorty. "Wait a minute ... there is orange soil."

"It's all over," Cernan went on excitedly. "Orange. I've stirred it up with my feet.

On earth, scientists were also excited by the discovery, though cautious in their evaluation. They said the orange soil may have originated from "the last gaseous gasp of volcanism" on the moon.

Dr. Robin Brett, chief of the geochemistry branch at the Manned Spacecraft Center, said the material possibly could be rust — which has been found in other lunar samples in minute quantities — or some chemical combination which assumes a reddish color.

While Cernan and Schmitt motored on the moon, their crewmate, Ronald E. Evans, labored in the command ship America orbiting overhead. Evans is operating an array of science instruments which are photographing and probing large slices of the moon.

If the soil is a product of the volcanism that Brett spoke of, it may represent material from as recent as 100 million years ago, a time that's only yesterday in the evolution of the moon.

Cernan, the 38-year old mission commander, and Schmitt, 37, photographed the orange material in color from several angles and then took big scoop samples. Cernan also drove two core tubes into the material to get deeper samples.

But, pressed by time, the astronauts were not able to stay longer and find what Schmitt said could have been evidence of volcanic action from the moon's more recent geologic past.

The travelers of Taurus-Littrow started their day working as space-age auto mechanics.

The right rear fender of their $2 million electric car had been torn off by accident Monday and they wanted to repair it.

Following instructions from Mission Control and using a design suggested by Apollo 16 commander John Young, Schmitt and Cernan clamped a taped-together sheet of plastic-like paper in the place of the broken fender. They were delighted with the makeshift repair job.

Winter's Splendor

While the series of ice storms gripping the state have provided numbing cold and hazardous driving conditions, they have also provided an icy beauty which may readily be seen in glittering tree limbs and sparkling cascades of frozen water. The late-night time exposure, above, taken at Liberty Park, shows a streetlight casting an artificial moonbean across the frozen surface of the lagoon. Area residents were greeted Wednesday morning by blue skies and sunshine, a welcome sight. This creek, partially thawed by the sun, reflected the glittering shrubbery lining the banks, left.

Name USIA Head

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced today he will name James Keogh, a former executive director of Time Magazine, to head the U.S. Information Agency, replacing Frank J. Shakespeare Jr.

In another round of changes in high-level posts for his second term, Nixon also designated the dean of the Duke Law School, Joseph T. Sneed, 52, of Durham, N.C., to be deputy attorney general. Sneed, one of Nixon's professors at the school, would succeed Ralph E. Erickson, who, the White House said, will be offered a high judicial post.

And, Ronald H. Walker, 35, a special assistant to Nixon who has been serving as an advance man on presidential trips, was named to be the new director of the National Park Service. He would succeed George B. Hertzog Jr., who was relieved of his duties by Nixon.

Remaining in a top-level post he has held since early in the Nixon administration, is 44-year-old William H. Brown III, chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. The panel has been given new powers by Congress to combat job discrimination of all types. A native of Philadelphia, Brown was first named to the EEOC by President Lyndon B. Johnson and was kept on by Nixon.

Sneed, 52, a native of Calvert, Tex., has been a professor of Law at Cornell, Stanford and the University of Texas.

HST Continues His Struggle

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harry S. Truman's doctor said today the 88-year-old former president was "holding his own" as he remained in serious condition with heart and respiratory problems.

Truman's vital signs of blood pressure, pulse and temperature continued to fluctuate and were elevated overnight, a spokesman for Research Hospital and Medical Center said. But his pulse was 88, blood pressure 114-56 and temperature 101 — all within normal limits — at 10 a.m. EST.

Truman was taken to the hospital Dec. 5 by ambulance when an ailment which had lingered for two weeks was described as lung congestion. The following day he was placed on the critical list, where he remained until Sunday when his condition was upgraded to serious.

Doctors said Tuesday the former chief executive's condition would fluctuate within the serious classification for some time.

The hospital spokesman said Truman's heart condition remained unchanged from Tuesday when it was noted as stronger than earlier in the week. His kidney function was described as adequate.

The spokesman said Truman responds to verbal stimuli but that he did not talk during the night. The spokesman said this meant Truman was aware he is being spoken to but did not necessarily reply.

John Dreves, director of public relations of the hospital, said neither Bess Truman nor their daughter, Margaret Truman Daniel, visited the hospital Tuesday for the first time since Truman was admitted. Icy streets made travel hazardous. Dreves said he didn't know their plans for today.

Truman is receiving oxygen continuously through a face mask and he is being fed through a nasal-gastric tube.

In response to a newsman's question, Dreves said that Truman is not and never has been on life supporting machinery such an artificial respirator.

Israeli Goals Clear

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel is making it clear to the Nixon administration that it wants the United States to keep its ideas to itself about the Mideast, at least for the time being.

According to Yigal Allon, Israeli deputy prime minister, the current situation in his part of the world is "so delicate that we don't want to jeopardize it" with big-power involvement at this time.

Allon's statements, made to Secretary of State William P. Rogers as well as to a day-long series of news conferences Tuesday, are a bit of a comeuppance for the Nixon administration, which has made a new American diplomatic effort in the Mideast a key objective for the near future.

He gave support to the theory of the American plan—to arrange an interim settlement as a prelude to an over-all solution—but he indicated his government's real feeling is that "we don't want America to go too early."

According to Allon, Rogers indicated in their two-hour working lunch Tuesday that he agreed "to the notion there should be no premature step because the situation is so delicate."

Therefore, Allon said, "we don't expect any (American) initiative in the immediate future."

This "delicate situation" cited by the Israeli leader involves the general relaxation of tensions around the world, specifically between the United States and the Soviet Union and the two sides of what used to be the European Iron Curtain.

The international situation is so good, the Israeli said, that the world "can afford to wait a few months" before taking any actions that could endanger a Mideast solution.

The prospective summit meeting between Nixon and Soviet leaders was indicated by Allon as a development that should be awaited before a new Mideast effort is made.

Other factors he indicated should come first include another visit to Washington by Prime Minister Golda Meir, the naming of new ambassadors by Israel and Washington and a determination by both sides of the Mideast conflict that there should be a new initiative.

Success Sweet For Jim Croce

By ALAN WILSON
Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — For Jim Croce, success means saying goodbye to the days when he ducked away from flying barstools, popped pills called "West Coast Turnarounds" and cringed from the pain of his jackhammer-cramped hands.

Somehow, there's no way anyone could seriously question whether Croce has paid his so-called dues. It's all too obvious that he has. His songs let you know more than anything else.

Croce, 29, is bounding up the ladder of musical success after nearly a decade of passing the hat and hitting the road. His two most widely recognized songs are "Operator" and "Don't Mess with Jim."

On stage, he comes across with down-to-earth songs, some sad and other comical. And his flexible style of entertainment is, perhaps, his greatest asset — for he sings with a lyrical story-telling style that nearly everyone identifies with because of its appeal to basic emotions.

"I try to approach my songs so others can say they've had that kind of experience too," said Croce, who was raised in South Philadelphia and became a disc jockey before embarking on a musical career.

The thing that Croce is concentrating on more than anything else is improving his already-accomplished style of guitar picking.

"Right now I'm tinkering around with the guitar and trying to become a better player. I listen to Jerry Reid all day and all night. He's unbelievable."

"Between the jackhammers and the steering wheels, my hands have stiffened up," he said of the kind of rugged truck driving and construction work he was doing only a year ago.

Croce likes to recall for his audiences the days when he barreled down the highways in huge freight trucks trying to keep awake on pep pills.

"They're called 'West Coast Turnarounds,'" he said, "because after you're through driving from Orlando to San Diego you just pop another one in your mouth and turn around to head back. It gets kinda weird though when you begin having conversation with your windshield."

Croce's life is a mixed bag if ever there was one. He has a degree in psychology, worked for the State Department on a Mideast cultural exchange program and used to write "jive" radio commercials.

"You know the kind," he said. "They go something like this: 'Alright all you heavy cats out there, we're gonna get down and do it funky right tonight so lay back and let us lay some of that heavy jive music on ya'll man."

Though Croce's style borders on country-folk, he's quick to point out that "I grew up listening to country music and a lot of the old-time Jimmy Rodgers stuff. The first groups I played in were bluegrass."

The list of his most respected performers is as varied as his lifestyle. It ranges from classical guitarist Christopher Parkening to the old-time music of Fats Domino.

"Good-time funky music is the stuff I love — stuff like the Coasters and Fats did and stuff that Jerry Reid and Merle Haggard are doing."

His home, at present, is a rented farmhouse in Wagontown, Pa., "When I go back home," he said, "I like to stop in at the old bars and hangouts."

"It's not a dues paying scene," he added somewhat apologetically. "Rather, it's something I did then and still like to do now.

"Whether sitting at a bar or out of work, I've had a chance to sort things out in my head and with my songs. That way I know where my musical direction is coming from."

"It isn't magic," he said of his songwriting style. "It's just sitting down and trying to say something."

Claims Gay Guys Are Not Unhappy

Dear Ann Landers: Let me begin by saying I am a homosexual, over 30, who neither flaunts his mode of life nor makes excuses for it. I would like to comment on the letter from the young homosexual who signed himself "On Edge." He asked you to help persuade his friend to let him move out of his parents' home into his place. The friend balked on the grounds that two single guys living together might just as well post a sign, "We are gay." Your advice was "You have all the problems you can handle. Don't add another by trying to move in with an unenthusiastic roommate. Get a place of your own."

I heartily agree that the young man should find a place of his own, but I take issue with your assumption that a homosexual is automatically burdened with problems just because he is gay. Come on, Ann, do you really believe that?

Homosexuals are no unhappier than anyone else. True, our lives aren't all peaches and cream, but then whose is?

I hope you will disabuse the public of the old myth that homosexuals are wretched and miserable. Please help tear down another wall of ignorance. — Avid Reader

Dear Av.: It is foolish to make a statement that all members of ANY group are one way or another. Groups are made up of individuals and each individual is different.

I do not agree with your statement that as a group, homosexuals are no unhappier than others. My mail reflects the opposite. And don't tell me my mail comes from the troubled, the unbalanced or the lunatic fringe. I hear from everybody.

Some homosexuals are content with their lot, but most of them would be straight if they had a choice. The most poorly-adjusted homosexuals are the closet queens who have a crippling fear of being found out. The anxiety and conflict in their lives are hideous. The saddest of all are the homosexuals who have been read off by their families. They feel abandoned, despised and guilty — and their name is legion.

Dear Ann Landers: Inasmuch as the most persistent source of your correspondence seems to be from the short leg of the matrimonial triangle, I would like to propose the following theorem:

The ratio of spouses unfaithful to the marriage contract by the overt act of commission is directly proportional to the number of spouses unfaithful to the marriage contract by the covert act of omission.

Let me start your list of "covert acts" by giving you an example.

1. Passive submission is the next thing to being out of town. It does nothing for anybody.

2. Sex with a profit motive is prostitution. I know because I'm there now. — Overt Spouse But Not By Choice

Dear Overt: Your theorem, translated into ninth grade English, is:

1. Husbands who cheat do so because their wives are dead from the neck both ways.

2. If a man has to offer his wife a special bonus for bestowing her sexual favors, she is nothing more than a prostitute. Your signature suggests that you are getting sex on the outside because the home-grown variety is unsatisfactory.

No one can judge the merits of a sexual relationship except the individuals involved. But this I can tell you, Buster, some men would rather eat garbage in a restaurant than a wholesome meal at home. Why? Don't ask me. It's one of those mysteries with a thousand answers — depending on who is doing the answering.

Death Verdict Returned

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A presumptive death verdict for missing U.S. Rep. Nick Begich and two others has been returned by a jury, but the judge has declined to sign a death certificate immediately.

After about 20 minutes of deliberations Tuesday, the six-member jury said it may "be fairly presumed" that Begich, Russell L. Brown and pilot Don E. Jonz have "suffered death" since the disappearance of a light plane Oct. 16.

Also aboard the Cessna 310 was House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs, but he was not included in the hearing "at the request of the family," officials said.

Judge Dorothy Tyner, while approving the verdict, said she did not believe there was "clear and convincing proof" that the three men are dead. She indicated she might sign presumptive death certificates in the next several weeks.

The judge told a newsman after the hearing there still is a chance the men may be alive, although a search was suspended officially Nov. 24.

Under state law, the jury verdict takes effect after six months unless the judge signs a presumative death certificate sooner.

Meanwhile, Gov. William A. Egan is barred from calling a special congressional election until Begich, Alaska's only House member, is certified dead.

Big Lemons Basement Specialty

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Lemons the size of softballs would be a rarity in most places, but a Kansas City-area man is coaxing them from a tree in a basement barrel.

John R. Radu of suburban Grandview imported a 10-inch tree two years ago from California. Now it is some two and half feet tall and has produced some surprisingly large fruit.

Radu says one of his lemons, resembling an elongated grapefruit, measured 14 inches in circumference.

Radu is a civilian employe at Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base and says the tree is just a hobby. He attributes the results to proper care: "I baby it around quite a bit."

Radu says he daily sprays a fine mist of water on the plant to initiate a heavy dew, as well as keep spiders off the branches and leaves.

The tree is planted in a wooden barrel that sits outdoors during the summer. But at times like this, with most of Missouri locked in ice and some of the coldest temperatures in state history, the tree huddles near a basement window.

Lest anyone accuse him of exaggeration about the size of his produce, Radu notes that his wife made a Thanksgiving pie from one lemon.

"You don't," he beams, "need too many of them when they're that big."

He donned his ice skates, sailed three miles into Veedersburg, made his purchases and returned home without a spill.

Need More Volunteers On Project

Jóe Wasson, fund raising chairman for the Noon Optimist Club, said at Tuesday's meeting that the Christmas tree sales program is only $220 away from being in the black and added that more workers for the lot are still needed. The club has its sales lot at Broadway and Kentucky.

The reward fund for information concerning the disappearance of Bill Bailey, a club member, has risen to $150, it was reported. Bailey disappeared from his service station almost three months ago.

A letter of appreciation from Mayor Jerry Jones was read thanking the club for its donation to the community center. Also, a letter from the Sedalia Jaycees was read asking the club to submit nominations for Outstanding Young Man, Outstanding Educator and Outstanding Young Farmer awards.

The program scheduled for Tuesday's meeting was to feature Sgt. Jim Happy of the State Highway Patrol. However, he was unable to attend because of the weather. Instead, an open meeting was held including discussion of a fund raising project for next year, attendance and new membership.

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Human Side Of Emphysema

Dear Dr. Lamb — I read a letter in your column where a gentleman questioned the seriousness of emphysema and asked if it was an exaggerated illness. One cannot exaggerate a killer, I know. It killed my father. I hope you will print this letter for him and thousands like him to read. My dad had asthma from birth. He also smoked heavily. Then he developed emphysema. The best doctors in the area told him he had to stop smoking and take it easy. He tried. He even went to a hypnotist. Anyone who has smoked for 30 years knows the agony of an hour without a cigarette. He never stopped.

I don't think he really believed he was dying, but we knew. We watched for three years. We saw him drop to 90 pounds. We saw him grow old and weak at 56. It seems quiet now without his wracking cough. I go to the room where he stayed this last year watching television and sleeping. He only left to use the bathroom. I can still smell the cigarettes. Still see the burn marks in the carpet where his shaky hands dropped the shorter ones. He never complained, even after I saw the knowledge of his own death creeping into those bloodshot eyes and the stark fear of dying. I have known since September that my dad probably wouldn't be here for my graduation. He went to the hospital and within a month he knew only my mother. Still another month later, he died.

Some people may think it was his own fault. I don't know the answer. I only know that cigarettes and emphysema have taken away the only father I have ever known.

There is nothing more I can say, except don't do this to your family or yourself. Stop before it is too late. Before you break your children's hearts. Life is too precious.

Dear Reader — Thank you for bringing out the human side of the tragedy of cigarette smoking and emphysema. If more people who smoked realized what they were doing and the effect it would have on their loved ones, perhaps they would make a stronger effort to stop smoking cigarettes and follow their doctor's advice.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Recently I heard on TV that men today are going bald 10 years earlier than in the previous generation. Do you have any advice on how a man in his early 20s can avoid or delay this process?

Dear Reader — Unfortunately, that is our nature.

Apparently, human beings have been becoming less hairy, at least on the head, for centuries and it is just a natural part of our evolution. Individuals who have a good solid growth of hair around the sides and back of their head can sometimes have hair transplants (although these are very expensive when done by competent people). Other individuals will just have to resort to artificial hair pieces or learn to consider baldness the normal characteristic and perhaps popularize "bald is beautiful."

DEATH NOTICES

Dr. Emmett Ellis

WARRENSBURG — Dr. Emmett Ellis, 83, died Tuesday morning in his home here.

He was born Nov. 5, 1889, in Benton County, son of the late Harry and Ella Grigs Ellis. He married Jessie Carter, Dec. 28, 1927, in Kansas City.

Mr. Ellis was a member of the First Baptist Church, here. He was a past commander of Post 131 of the American Legion. He served as chaplain of the American Legion of the Department of Missouri. Mr. Ellis was a member of the Elks Lodge, Corinthian Lodge 264 AF and AM, DeMolay Chapter 26 and a Royal Arch Mason since 1920.

He was a member of the Mary Commandery 19 Knights Templar, a 50 year member of Chapter 3 of OES and the Scottish Rite Masonic bodies in Kansas City. He was a 33rd Degree Scottish Rite Mason and received his 50 year pin in Royal Arch Masonry in 1970. He was a member of the K.C.C.H. since the fall 1953.

Mr. Ellis was one of the 17 founders of Sigma Tau Gamma Fraternity, which was organized at Central Missouri State College in 1920. He was a member of the Missouri Historical Society and the Johnson County Historical Society. He served as a member of the Warrensburg City Council for eight years and was city assessor for two years.

Mr. Ellis served as chairman of the Arrowhead District of the Boy Scouts of America for many years. He was an honorary director-at-large of the Missouri Tuberculosis Association.

He retired from the faculty of Central Missouri State University in 1960 with the title of Professor Emeritus. Mr. Ellis was a veteran of World War I and in 1971 he was one of four Missourians to receive the first Distinguished Legionaire Award.

He is survived by his wife, Jessie, of the home; one son, Robert Ellis, Houston, Tex.; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. Thursday at the First Baptist Church here with Dr. Frank E. Meyer and the Rev. Edward H. Kolbe officiating.

Burial will be in Sunset Hills Cemetery here.

The body will be at Holdren Funeral Home until 1 p.m. Thursday.

Kenneth R. Johnson

LINCOLN — Kenneth R. Johson, 50, died Monday at the Golden Valley Hospital in Clinton.

He was born in Benton County, near Fairfield, June 6, 1922, son of the late Ernest and Dimple McKenzie Johnson. In 1927 he moved to Windsor with his family. He graduated from the Windsor High School in 1941.

He was a veteran of World War II and had been employed by the Missouri Highway Department for 24½ years, retiring in 1971 due to ill health.

Surviving are two brothers, Roy Dean Johnson, Lincoln; Eugene Johnson, Windsor; seven sisters, Mrs. Fern Kelly, Windsor; Mrs. Kenneth Smith and Mrs. Dwight Alexander, both of Clinton; Mrs. Elmer Easter, Green Ridge; Mrs. Ronald Lovan, Bryan, Tex.; Mrs. Robert Dial, Akron, Ohio; Mrs. Waldo Hale, Tarkio, Mo.; and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Thursday at the Fred Davis and Son Funeral Home here with the Rev. Ralph Prosser officiating.

Burial will be in the Laurel Oak Cemetery, Windosr.

The family will receive friends at the funeral home from 7 to 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Norman A. Geiger

ROCKVILLE, Md. — Norman A. Geiger, 48, formerly of Sedalia, died here Tuesday.

He is survived by his wife and three children.

Funeral services and burial will be a Fayette, Mo., at 2 p.m. Saturday.

The body will be brought to the Carr Funeral Home, Fayette.

Robert J. Calvin

EVANSVILLE, Wyo. — Robert J. Calvin, 71, died Monday evening.

He was born in Pettis County, son of Thomas J. and Alvine Eichholz Calvin. He spent his early years in Sedalia.

Mr. Calvin is survived by his wife, Mary, of the home; two sisters, Mrs. Ida Stanley, Richmond, Ind.; Mrs. Mabel Rice, Cleveland, Ohio; and one brother, John L. Calvin, Smithton.

Funeral services and burial will be held in Casper, Wyo.

Deane Martin

WARSAW — Funeral services for Deane Martin, 73, who died at 1:30 p.m. Monday at the Lincoln Nursing Home following a short illness, will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Reser Funeral Chapel, here, with the Rev. Ted Francis officiating.

Burial will be in Riverside Cemetery, here.

The family will receive friends Wednesday evening at the funeral chapel.

Plate Glass Window Is Vandal Target

Vandalism to a plate glass window, two thefts and two instances of tree limbs falling on cars were reported to Sedalia police Tuesday.

A BB gun was used to shoot two holes in a plate glass window on the south side of Bing's Super Market, State Fair Shopping Center, Monday night or Tuesday, police said.

May Wilkie, 706 West Third, reported that about 190 record albums were taken from her residence within the last two weeks. Police said no signs of forcible entry were found on doors or windows at the house.

Automotive items valued at $106 were reported stolen about 3:40 p.m. Tuesday from a motor vehicle at the Sedalia Implement Co., 2205 South Limit. Reported taken were a 12-volt battery, radio, fuel cap, wheel, lights and knobs. Police said the items were removed with tools.

Joyce Hesse, 2604 East 16th, told police a bowling pin bank valued at $25.30 was taken from the trunk of her auto while it was parked at a lot at Main and Osage between 3:30 and 5 p.m. Friday. Police reported no signs of forcible entry.

Howard Cordes, 2400 West Second Street Terrace and Larry Gregory, 1302 South Osage, told police tree limbs fell on their autos Tuesday morning, causing damage to both cars.

Cordes told police that the hood of his vehicle was damaged while the car was parked in the 1600 block of South Lamine. Gregory said the rear of his vehicle was damaged.

Criminal Charges Face Man, Woman In Court Here

Two persons faced criminal charges in Pettis County Magistrate Court Wednesday morning.

Cynobia Wilson, Kansas City, was bound over for trail to the next term of Pettis County Circuit Court on a charge of stealing more than $50. She remains in the Pettis County jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Miss Wilson is charged with stealing three women's suits, a coat and four dresses, with a total value of $830, from the C.W. Flower Co., 219 South Ohio, Nov. 26, 1971.

In another case, Charles Williams, Marshall, was formally charged with issuing an insufficient funds check of more than $100.

Magistrate Court Judge Frank Armstrong set Williams' bond at $2,500. A preliminary hearing date has been tentatively set for Dec. 27.

According to Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax, Williams was taken into custody at Marshall Wednesday morning by sheriff's deputies. He was being held there for local authorities by the Saline County sheriff's department, Fairfax said.

Williams' warrant alleges that on Oct. 14 he issued an insufficient funds check of $1,900 to Town and Country Motors, 3110 West Broadway.

He remains in the Pettis County jail.

The Book Fair will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday; from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday; and from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday.

More Entries Are Sought by Chamber

The Chamber of Commerce Wednesday appealed for additional entries for this year's home Christmas decorating contest. Only seven entries have been received so far, it was reported.

The deadline for entering the competition is Monday. Last year, 30 homes were entered, a Chamber spokesman said.

Kissinger and Tho End Crucial Talks

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho ended their crucial peace talks session today without announcement of any agreement on ending the Vietnam war.

Kissinger prepared to fly to Washington to report to President Nixon following a six-hour meeting with Tho.

Communist and other sources said major points of difference still remain to be ironed out between the two top negotiators.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told newsmen in Washington the two delegates at the regular semipublic peace talks, William J. Porter of the United States and Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam, would continue meeting periodically to discuss technical aspects of a possible future agreement.

Ziegler said Kissinger will confer with Nixon Thursday, and will remain in communication with Tho. Any decision regarding further meetings of the two top negotiators would be made jointly by both sides through an exchange of messages, Ziegler added.

The press spokesman would not say flatly that further Paris talks are contemplated, but his language suggested that they are likely.

There was no immediate indication of the points of disagreement which led to renewed suspension of the talks.

Before the President's national security adviser and North Vietnam's Politburo member met in a suburban villa, a subcommittee of experts held a 90-minute session to discuss details of a settlement.

French press reports said agreement was near on the issue blocking a cease-fire accord, the withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam. La Nation predicted agreement in "a matter of hours."

But Humanite, the French Communist party newspaper, said Kissinger was insisting on fundamental changes in the draft he and Tho worked out in October and "is holding up the signature of an accord which could lead to a cease-fire within 24 hours."

Kissinger was accompanied this morning by William J. Porter, the U.S. delegate to the four-party weekly peace talks, and William Sullivan, deputy assistant secretary of state for Southeast Asian affairs. Tho's delegation included Xuan Thuy, the North Vietnamese delegate to the four-party talks, and Nguyen Co Thach, Hanoi's deputy foreign minister.

Kissinger's plane arrived at Orly Airport Tuesday night from a U.S. air base in Germany. Airport authorities said the U.S. embassy ordered the crew to prepare for departure today after the meeting with Tho.

President Nixon's national security adviser conferred for 4½ hours Tuesday with Hanoi's chief peace negotiator after two subcommittees met earlier in the day to discuss details of the cease-fire draft.

The two peace negotiators had met for 52 hours during the past three weeks when Tuesday's session ended with cordial handshakes at a villa in Gif sur Yvette, 15 miles southwest of Paris.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann, who keeps in close contact with both sides, said Tuesday that a compromise is "possible and likely" despite "some signs of intractability."

"I have always been convinced that there will be a settlement before the U.S. Congress meets" on Jan. 3, Schumann told a press luncheon.

Reports from Saigon today said that President Nguyen Van Thieu feels President Nixon is hoping to announce a peace settlement during the Christmas season or in January, during his State of the Union address or at his inauguration.

Legislators who attended a reception at the presidential palace said Thieu also told them he does not believe Nixon will sign a bilateral agreement with North Vietnam.

$28,570 Spent By Court For New Equipment

The Pettis County Court has spent $28,570.22 in revenue-sharing funds for the purchase of road machinery and gravel, Presiding Judge B.A. Fischer announced Wednesday.

The purchases were the first to be made with funds provided through the county's initial revenue-sharing check, which arrived Monday.

Items purchased by the court include a Ford truck with a Parkhurst dump bed, $7,507.22, from Bill Greer Motor Co.; two snow plows, $1,605 and $1,120, from Dean Machinery Co.; and a heavy-duty Dodge truck with a Parkhurst dump bed and hoist, $8,338.

Stock gravel bought includes $5,000 purchases each from the W.J. Menefee Construction Co. and the Howard Construction Co.

Fischer said the court decided to purchase the machinery now because "the prices would all go up at the first of the year."

Western Judge Zeb Thomas said bids were not let on the purchases because they are not required by state law and "because our equipment is so specialized and tailor made. You can't take bids on such specialized equipment."

Excited By Find On Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Discovery of orange-colored soil on the lunar surface by Apollo 17 astronauts Tuesday night created great excitement on the earth as well as on the moon.

Harrison H. "Jack" Schmitt and Eugene Cernan were ecstatic in their exclamations when they sighted the colorful material near a crater called Shorty.

And at the Manned Spacecraft Center, a leading scientist called it "one of the most important finds" of the Apollo missions.

Schmitt, a geologist, immediately saw the orange area as signifying a possible volcanic vent, or fumarole.

Dr. Robin Brett, chief geochemist at the center who discussed the find with newsmen, said from the initial evidence the orange material might have resulted from the moon's "last gaseous gasp of volcanism," or volcanic activity.

The reason for the excitement is that if the phenomenon did result from a fumarole it would be the first one found on the moon and would give scientists clues in their search for missing knowledge of the moon's evolution.

Brett and other scientists who briefed newsmen during the astronauts' second excursion on the surface of the moon were cautious about their interpretations, but clearly saw a fumarole as a distinct possibility.

Confirmation must await return of materials collected at the site to earth so they can be studied in laboratories.

authorizing the board's treasurer to invest school funds in compliance with Missouri law. Previously he was allowed to invest only on 30-day notes.

A motion to allow the Sedalia Park Board to use school recreational facilities when not being used for school functions was approved.

Also, a motion to allow the park and recreational program to use school facilities for a year-round recreational program was approved. Dates for using the facilities will be scheduled through the superintendent's office by the Park Board.

The board authorized Buller to use Deco floor covering for the school's restrooms. The new covering is a substitute for a painted concrete surface originally agreed on. The change was made because cracks had appeared in the floor, it was reported.

The board approved payment of $6,300 to Buller — a payment that was supposed to have been made last month but wasn't because of a mathematical error.

McMaster Supply Co., was awarded the contract on security gates with a bid of $428.79 each, to be installed at the junior high. The Wenger Corp., successfully bid, at $318 each, for choral risers, a series of tiered benches for use by the chorus. The purchase was approved.

Terrorist Gunfire Is Fatal

BELFAST (AP) — Terrorist gunfire killed a police officer Tuesday night and wounded four persons, including a 12-year-old girl. But Northern Ireland's political climate appeared to improve as British Administrator William Whitelaw met with both Roman Catholic and Protestant political leaders.

The 47-year-old police officer was off duty when he was felled by a fusillade of some 30 shots as he left a hotel on the outskirts of Belfast. His killing brought the confirmed death toll to 661 in more than three years of communal strife.

A machine-gun burst from a passing car, fired at a Belfast bar frequented by Roman Catholics, hit a 12-year-old girl buying candy in a store next door, two teen-age youths standing on the sidewalk and a man inside the bar. None were seriously injured.

Whitelaw met first with leaders of the Protestant Unionist Party, Northern Ireland's ruling faction until the British government supplanted it in March, and then with leaders of the Social Democratic and Labor Party, the party of the province's moderate Catholics.

It was the first time the Catholic party had met with Whitelaw to discuss the political future of Northern Ireland. The meeting was kept secret until after it was over to prevent an attack by the Catholic guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army, who contend that Ireland can be reunified only by fighting.

Collector Receives School Lunch Money

Federal school lunch funds totaling $14,922.28 were recived Thursday by Pettis County Collector Virgil Houchens for distribution to county schools.

The amounts received by the schools include Pettis County R I, $44.72; Hughesville R V, $1,052.80; LaMonte R IV, $1,019.04; Smithton R VI, $1,657.88; Green Ridge R VIII, $871.72; and Sedalia 200, $10,276.12.

Houchens said the payments represented the first such federal lunch payments for the current school year.

Contest Deadline Set For Smithton

(Democrat-Capital Service)

SMITHTON — The deadline for entering the home Christmas lighting contest here is Friday, according to Mrs. Karl Kasak.

Entries in the contest, which has expanded to include participants within a two-mile radius of Smithton, will be judged Monday with three awards to be given in both the city and county divisions.

Prizes will be $15, $10 and $5.

Bond

Alan Woods, 27, as chief of his executive office staff.

Woods, a longtime friend of Bond from Mexico, Mo., formerly was on President Nixon's staff.

Bond still has about 15 other major appointments to make, including those of director of revenue, director of planning and construction, director of welfare, state finance commissioner, director of employment security, commissioner of agriculture and superintendent of the highway patrol.

Col. E. I. "Mike" Hockaday is retiring as patrol superintendent in January. One of the men mentioned around the capital as a likely successor is Maj. Sam S. Smith, 53, district commander for the northern half of the state.

Police Court

Harry A. Harmon, 409 West Fourth, speeding, forfeited $10.

Terry L. Curry, 663 East 13th, petty larceny, dismissed.

Challenge Attack On Press

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With one chair left empty for imprisoned newsman William Farr, five other reporters who have faced legal charges for refusing to disclose secret sources said that a mounting attack on press freedom is actually an attack on the public's right to know.

The press has become a scapegoat for vindictive judges and government authorities seeking to cover up their own mistakes, the newsmen charged.

The reporters, Earl Caldwell of the New York Times; Peter Bridge, of the now defunct Newark Evening News; Joe Weiler of the Memphis Commercial Appeal, Vi Murphy of the San Diego Union and Ron Ridenour of the Los Angeles Free Press, also blamed news media for not taking a strong enough stand to defend themselves.

The reporters spoke Tuesday night at a University of Southern California panel discussion entitled "The Death of the First Amendment."

"The general attitude of the news media is to run from a contempt case," said Mrs. Murphy, who was jailed for a month 12 years ago after refusing to testify before the Colorado Supreme Court.

"We are an embarrassment to the news media, like the aunt who spills coffee on the rug. They won't kick us out of the family but they wish we hadn't spilled the coffee."

She urged news media to fight for federal laws protecting reporters' rights to keep sources confidential.

Farr, who had been scheduled to appear, is in his third week of an indefinite jail sentence imposed by Charles Manson murder trial judge Charles Older. Farr has refused to say which attorney in that case gave him information for a story.

Miller Leading In UMW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported today that challenger Arnold Miller has taken the lead over United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle in the union's court-ordered election.

Miller had 11,774 votes to 10,673 for Boyle, said the Labor Department, which is conducting the vote count under heavy guard.

The vote count is inconclusive so far with more than 100,000 votes still to be tallied.

Miller's running mates, Mike Trbovich for vice president and Harry Patrick for secretary-treasurer, also moved ahead of their opponents on Boyle's slate.

Trbovich had 11,146 votes to 10,573 for Leonard J. Pnakovich while Patrick had 11,423 votes to 10,307 for Wilbert Killion.

In the initial vote count report Tuesday from 53 of the union's 1,300 locals, showed Boyle with 2,180 votes to 1,587 for Miller.

Miller, running under the Miners for Democracy banner, is filling the insurgent shoes of the late Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, who was found murdered along with his wife and daughter several weeks after losing the union's 1969 presidential election to Boyle.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge William B. Bryant ordered the election after widespread voting fraud in the 1969 contest.

Boyle has repeatedly disclaimed any knowledge of the Yablonski slayings. Several local and district officials and mineworkers from Pennsylvania and Tennessee have confessed or been indicted in connection with the shootings.

The Labor Department count, conducted under heavy guard, also showed Boyle's running-mates well ahead of their Miners for Democracy opponents.

Labor Department officials estimated that some 130,000 out of the nearly 200,000 union members had voted in the election which was conducted Dec. 1-8 in 25 states under the supervision of 1,000 Labor Department agents. The sealed ballot boxes were shipped to a Labor Department Office in suburban Silver Spring Md., where the count is being conducted. The outcome is not expected to be known for several days.

Both sides predicted victory, and said the first announced votes were inconclusive.

Schism Threatens National Farmers Group

By RICHARD J. OLIVE
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The National Farmers Organization convention, this year featuring a bitter schism with the continued presidency of Oren Lee Staley at stake, was called to order Wednesday afternoon at Municipal Auditorium.

A movement of dissident members, the "'72 Convention Committee" has been viewed as the most serious threat Staley has faced in his 17 years as NFO president, the only one the nationwide farmers' bargaining agent has ever had.

Staley shrugs it off: "Their efforts have been a flop."

Don Kimball, 38, an Amarillo, Tex., farmer, emerged Tuesday as Staley's strongest challenger going into the convention. One of six NFO national directors expelled from the board last summer, Kimball reported to a cheering rally he had challenged Staley to a debate on the convention floor as soon as the convention opens.

Staley would not comment on his feelings about a debate with Kimball, but indicated the issue might be moot because of the possibility Kimball would be declared a nonmember, and ineligible for the presidency.

The NFO president, 49, of Rea, Mo., said Kimble, another director from Texas, two from Kansas and one each from California and South Dakota were summoned before the board of directors last summer to answer charges about activities "not in the best interests of the NFO."

The directors were represented at a hearing at Corning, Iowa, NFO headquarters, by counsel, Staley said. The board voted for their expulsion. Because they failed to appear as requested, Staley added, they can also be expelled from the organization under authority granted by the bylaws.

"If he (Kimball) is not a member, he won't even be able to voice an opinion," Staley said.

Staley views the dissidents as a minority of six—the six former directors who happen to be "a group of ex-employes who didn't have a very good track record in the NFO."

Proposals they put forward as amendments to the bylaws, including a regular audit of NFO accounts, are, in Staley's estimation, "a vicious smear tactic" against him, "with no concrete proposals for collective bargaining."

He added:

"The best issue is always to try to arouse criticism of handling of the money."

Staley says he sees no merit in any of the proposals submitted by the dissidents.

All their proposals were defeated Tuesday in the bylaws committee hearings. The most emotional of them were the demands for an audit, a prohibition against salaried employes holding elective office and the establishment of a tenure of office for all elected positions.

Anti-Staley forces hope to get the issues before the convention and, failing that, resurrected Friday if they can get one of their own number elected president.

Kimball, who called for a "national statistical system" to disclose to the members secret information long maintained by Staley and some NFO staff members, said the need for a reliable audit of all accounts is one of the hottest issues across the nation. The absence of it, he said, is eroding NFO membership.

Staley said it is not an issue at all because of safeguards written into the bylaws protecting members' funds.

However, at least one farm housewife indicated she and her husband were not satisfied with the present safeguards.

Another woman lobbying for Staley told her, "Don't forget what Oren Lee has done and where we would be today if it weren't for him."

"I know all that," the other woman said. "We just want to know where our money is."

Vitamin Limits Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing a danger of "acute and chronic toxicity" in high doses, the Food and Drug Administration Wednesday moved to limit the strength of Vitamin A and D products.

"The availability without prescription of these vitamins in high dosage levels contributes significantly to their misuse and the occurrence of serious adverse effects," the agency said.

Interested persons have 60 days to comment on the proposal, which will be followed "in the near future" by broad regulations covering most other vitamins, minerals, and other food supplements.

The immediate effect of the A and D proposal would be to require reformulation of an undetermined number of multivitamins, the FDA said.

The restrictions would apply also, FDA added, to vitamin products marketed as foods for special dietary purposes and as over-the-counter drugs.

Americans have been taking vitamin supplements for decades, but concern has been heightened by the new health-food craze.

The FDA said it has received reports of heavy promotion of both Vitamins A and D for the treatment of acne, night blindness and arthritis although "neither is proven effective for these conditions in well-nourished people."

The proposed daily limits are 10,000 international units for Vitamin A and 400 for D, which the FDA said would be "within the recommended daily dosages" established by the National Academy of Sciences.

Some products now on the market contain 10 times the recommended intake of D.

Natural sources of Vitamin A, necessary for growth and good eyesight, include liver, butter, yellow cheese, carrots, sweet potatoes, apricots, cantaloupe and green leafy vegetables.

Fortified milk and sunlight provide vitamin D which helps build strong bones and teeth.

The FDA said overdoses of Vitamin A can cause a wide range of complications, such as anorexia, growth retardation in children, drying and cracking skin, increased pressure in the skull, pain, irritability and headaches.

Vitamin D in excessive doses can be even more toxic, the FDA said, resulting at the extreme in hypertension, hypercalcemia in children, irreversible kidney failure and death.

Farm Roundup

Liberal Trade Policy Rumors Causing Worry

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rumors that the United States will seek a vastly more liberal trade policy for farm products in worldwide negotiations next year are causing new worries among dairy spokesmen.

Patrick B. Healy, secretary of the National Milk Producers Federation, says such a move "would devastate the domestic dairy industry" by opening up U.S. markets to more foreign products.

Although held tightly under wraps —some USDA officials deny the plan exists—the proposal reportedly is aimed at multilateral reduction or elimination of trade barriers, thus paving the way for free trade among countries.

At present, for example, the European Communtiy Common Market has "variable levies" of tariffs on a number of farm imports, particularly wheat and feed grain. The United States, by the same token, regulates many dairy imports through quota arrangements.

"The new policy calls for a shifting of trade priorities which would allow foreign dairy products to inundate the domestic cheese and butter market," Heavy said in the federation's current newsletter.

"Authors of the report were naive enough to suggest that U.S. dairy farmers could switch to beef or grain production where they would enjoy a more competitive advantage in the world market," he said.

The plan reportedly is part of an over-all strategy under consideration by U.S. officials for international discussions next fall under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT). The last such formal talks were known as the "Kennedy Round" in the mid-1960s.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has been saying frequently in speeches that farm trade will be a major item for discussion in the GATT talks next year. Healy has hinted strongly that "concessions will have to be made" if the United States wants to see world trade expanded.

The report was believed prepared at the direction of White House assistant Peter M. Flanigan last summer and kept under wraps as "classified" information.

Rep. John Melcher, D-Mont., has asked that the report be made public. He told a homestate Farmers Union meeting last week that the "Flanigan Report" probably would not be unveiled for some time.

One Agriculture Department official told a reporter Monday that the so-called "Flanigan Report" is not a single document but that it includes what the spokesman described as "bits and pieces" of various trade proposals worked up by government think-tank experts.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four more steer livers have been found to contain illegal residues of the growth stimulant, DES, the Agriculture Department said Monday.

The livers were found from animals originating in Texas, Arizona, Kansas and Nebraska, the department said.

The new findings raised to 101 the number of livestock livers found to contain DES among 4,659 sampled this year, officials said. That is an incidence rate of about 2.2 per cent.

Use of DES-diethylstilbestrol—has been banned in livestock feed beginning Jan. 1. No final decision has been made on the use of DES implanted directly in livestock, pending tests on whether that method is safe to use.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Modernization of food marketing in Japan is expected to help U.S. exports to that country, says the Agriculture Department.

"Japan's marketing system is so complex, however, that the U.S. exporter must give careful attention to market evaluation, testing and promotion," the Foreign Agricultural Service said Monday.

Japan has become a billion-dollar annual market for U.S. farm products. Now, with the country going more to restaurant and frozen food sales, U.S. processors will have an opportunity to enlarge upon that market, according to the report.

DISCOUNT with a DIFFERENCE

HERE'S WHAT "DISCOUNT WITH A DIFFERENCE" MEANS

Our Discount with a Difference program offers money-saving prices on the wide variety of high quality meats, produce and other foods which helped to build Safeway's reputation.

When we converted to discount, we made sweeping changes in operating methods. These changes, which included new pricing methods and the elimination of unnecessary merchandising expenses, reduced our cost of doing business. Our savings were immediately reflected in substantial price reductions. We introduced our every day low level prices which helped to make the discount program so popular and effective. With low prices in effect all week long, there was no longer need to postpone shopping until the week end. Low level prices gave our customers added incentive to buy from us all of their food needs. With shopping spread more uniformly throughout the week and throughout the store, our whole business became more efficient. We streamlined ordering, stocking and price marking. We increased checkstand efficiency and lessened the possibility of errors at check out. Savings in our costs of doing business continue to be reflected in the prices of things we sell. Shop Safeway for the finest foods and a low total food bill, that's Discount with a Difference.

Ratchford expands on plans for MU

President C. Brice Ratchford of the University of Missouri has spelled out in more detail his plan for a reorganization of the university system, a project announced earlier this year and one that caused a minor uproar.

Dr. Ratchford is carrying out the wishes of the university's Board of Curators, which directed a study of means by which the university could get the most benefit out of the educational dollar.

Spelled out in Dr. Ratchford's latest President's Bulletin is a proposal for the long-range academic development of the four campuses of the University of Missouri, which will be presented to the Board of Curators at its Jan. 19 meeting. The document reflects considerable thought and planning.

Underlying the proposed reorganization is a fundamental concept of the university which states, "The University of Missouri is a single institution with four campuses, each of which is a component of the whole." It stresses that "the university will be comprehensive, but no single campus will be."

Translated into practical steps, this will mean that academic disciplines will be trimmed or eliminated at some schools and enlarged at others. The goal will be to establish strong departments in all subject areas—divided among the four campuses of the University of Missouri—eliminating as much as possible overlap and duplication. Each campus would excel in specific and limited academic departments in its graduate levels and even in some undergraduate subjects.

This will be especially true of doctoral programs, which President Ratchford points out are the most expensive to maintain and the most difficult to properly staff. Naturally there will be (and already has been) considerable opposition to any reorganization that would threaten existing departments.

Yet if done right—and we are impressed with the efforts thus far—the result will be a better, trimmer and more efficient University of Missouri system. We think most Missourians would go along with that.

Indian official's power undermined

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Congress pledged in 1789 that Indian "lands and property shall never be taken from them without their consent." This is the story of what happened to an official who thought the treaty should be observed.

Indian Commissioner Louis Bruce, himself a Mohawk, tried to protect Indian rights against the depredations of the white exploiters. He was quickly quietly, stripped of his authority and left in his big, ornate office with no more power than a wooden cigar-store Indian. Last week, his resignation was picked up and he was dumped out of office without a word of appreciation.

The documents seized by Indians from government files describe how Bruce was thwarted by the Nixon Administration. His troubles began when he stood up to the big corporations greedy for Indian land and the local governments thirsty for Indian water. By early July 1971, he learned that the Administration was preparing to undercut him.

In a draft memo, he noted that a White House "Management Assistance Team" had recommended the appointment of a "Deputy Commissioner" to assist him. "This recommendation has, we understand, been accepted by the (Interior) Department."

Not long afterward, on July 23, 1971, Secretary Rogers Morton installed John Crow as the new deputy commissioner. The move was hailed by Morton, who spoke of Crow's role in "improving the lot of the American Indians."

The truth is that Crow, one-quarter Cherokee and three-quarters bureaucrat, could be trusted to carry out the Administration's bidding.

The transfer of power from Bruce to Crow began only three days after the appointment. On July 26, Morton signed an order giving Crow "any and all authority conferred upon the Commissioner of Indian Affairs by the Secretary of the Interior."

In other words, Crow was no ordinary deputy but a coequal with Bruce. It soon became evident that Crow, in fact, would be the real boss and Bruce would be a figurehead.

Crow immediately got out a memo laying down the law to the agency's executive staff. Henceforth, he would clear all communications to cabinet members, all documents on funds, all orders to field offices, all press releases — indeed, all, "correspondence with policy implications."

A day later, Crow instructed the Operating Services Offices to disregard a 1970 memo by Bruce because it had "expired." In the future, Crow added, the instructions would come from him.

Next day, he peremtorily demoted three of Bruce's top aides, including tough-minded Ernie Stevens, who had been one of the Indians' best friends. They were replaced by Crow's own henchmen. The order added bluntly: "All future designations to act in executive positions will be approved by me."

Another memo rescinded a reform instituted by Bruce and strengthened Crow's control over other activities. The power coup lasted five days. Thereafter, there were no more memos about honoring Indian treaties.

McGovern's Move — Sen. George McGovern, operating behind the scenes, made a last-minute attempt to head off Robert Strauss's election as the new Democratic national chairman last Saturday. McGovern persuaded his running mate, Sargent Shriver, to let his name be offered as a compromise candidate. Then McGovern began placing phone calls in an attempt to drum up support for Shriver. The effort never got beyond the first stage and McGovern quietly abandoned it. He telephoned Strauss twice — first on Saturday to offer his full support, again on Sunday to congratulate him for his performance on CBS-TV's Face the Nation.

Bryan's Aide — Maj. Gen. William E. Bryan, who is about to be transferred from Europe to Bolling Air Force Base outside Washington, wants to be sure he has someone to shine his shoes and polish his car when he arrives. He advertised in the base newspaper for an enlisted aide of sergeant's rank who could "manage-operate General Officer household," assist in holding "private and official social functions" and "be responsible for the condition and the maintenance of the General's private vehicle." It's a rule of thumb that a general is entitled to one enlisted aide for every star on his epaulette. The Army operates a finishing school for enlisted aides at Ft. Lee, Va., where they are properly schooled in the social graces.

Christmas Prizes — Santa will be coming to the National Park Service, with the assist of some gentle pressure. Arthur J. Lamb, the chief of special events, has solicited "token donations" from some 80 Washington businesses including a number of foreign airlines. The gifts were solicited in government-franked envelopes for door prizes. The Argentine Airlines, for example, sent Lamb four bottles of wine for the annual Christmas party. Asked for comment, Lamb gasped: "It was a big mistake...I should have been more careful."

Today's thoughts

"I will restore the fortunes of my people Israel, and they shall rebuild the ruined cities and inhabit them; they shall plant vineyards and drink their wine, and they shall make gardens and eat their fruit." — Amos 9:14.

With labor and management working together in common cause — and not against each other — we can build and produce and prosper, and defeat any threat, from whatever source, against our own security and the peace of the world. — William Green, American labor leader.

"Do not judge by appearances, but judge with right judgment." — John 7:24.

Judgment of the people is often wiser than the wisest men. — Louis Kossuth, Hungarian patriot.

Guerrilla is biding his time

CARACAS, Venezuela — Most readers of this column will never have heard of Teodoro Petkoff, even though he is something of a legend, both to this country's angry leftists and to its counterinsurgency forces.

But any Yankee who cares about the political future of the hemisphere had better soon know more about Petkoff and his thousands of compatriots in Latin America.

Rowan

Petkoff is a genuine Latin revolutionary (the son of a Bulgarian Communist who migrated to Venezuela in 1927 after the Bulgarian revolution failed) who helped to overthrow the dictatorship of Perez Jiminez in 1958 and subsequently failed to bring down the democratic governments of Romulo Betancourt and Raoul Leoni. In the process, he has organized urban and rural guerrilla insurrections that spread terror across this land.

Petkoff has escaped from the seventh-floor prison ward of the military hospital here by sliding down a nylon cord. Four years later (1967) he escaped the San Carlos army fortress in downtown Caracas by digging a tunnel.

Around these escapades, he spent years working for the Communist party, months in the mountains leading guerrilla units, many long periods in jail — and, finally, months of attacking the Soviet Union for the invasion of Czechoslovakia, an event which led to Petkoff's breaking with the party and starting the Movement to Socialism.

Almost incredibly, Teodore Petkoff walks the streets of Venezuela as freely as most men these days, still preaching revolution, still yearning for the day when he can bury the oligarchy and its Yankee co-conspirators, as he puts it, and give Venezuela to the masses who grovel in the wretched barrios (slums) which scar the verdant hillsides.

I do not remotely suggest that Petkoff is the wave of the future in Latin America. I talked to seemingly knowledgeable people, Yankee and Venezuelan, who insisted that he is not relevant to the real world of today. All I know is that I wish every citizen of the United States earning more than $10,000 a year could have sat in on my two-hour conversation with Petkoff.

This 30-year-old insurrectionist's every sentence inspires the kind of fear of tomorrow that makes the tiny ruling class in Latin America more determined to cling ruthlessly to every advantage, every iota of power, lest they be swept away in some moment of tenderness or largesse.

★ ★ ★

Asked why he gave up his gun and turned to the political process, Petkoff says bluntly: "We were defeated, militarily and politically. The spirit of the masses turned against us and it became just a private war between the government and the Communists. For a revolution, you must have the people."

Petkoff says he and his "socialist" colleagues are using two techniques to educate and win the masses for the coming revolution.

First, he says, "this is an explosive country. It is full of social and class conflicts, labor conflict, student conflicts, middle-class unhappiness. We are showing the people how one group's grievances are related to another's and how everyone's misery flows out of capitalism.

"Our second technique," Petkoff continued, "is to face the fact that we cannot turn our backs on the political process. We are participating in the elections because we need the exposure. After six months of campaigning our candidate had 12 per cent of the voters. In its best moment in 1958 the Communist party of Venezuela got only 6 per cent of the vote. Never has there been such a wide socialist movement in this country."

Petkoff says that the key to his current success is that "we have stopped screaming about 'national liberation from Yankee imperialism' and started talking about expropriating our own Venezuelan capitalists.

"Our ruling class, our local exploiters, used to applaud when we would attack the United States as the 'shark.' But now that we are attacking them instead of Rockefeller, they are afraid. We can tell by the way they are using television and the newspapers to try to counter us."

As if to further convince me that he has found a surer route to revolution than terrorism and guerrilla warfare, Petkoff said: "When we were in armed struggle, there was high political tension in this country, but not much social tension. Now there is little political tension but much social tension. Our Movement to Socialism has given class consciousness to the poor."

I reminded Petkoff that many people think he is dreaming — that he could never wrest control with his political movement. "If you are wrong, might you revert to armed struggle?" I asked.

"We are not married to elections, as we were not married to armed struggle," the muscular insurrectionist replied. "It is not possible for a revolutionary movement to discard or disavow any means of fighting.

Japan eyes wider U.S. investments

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Japanese investment in the United States may be accelerated sharply if new U.S.-Japanese trade agreements now being talked about limit appreciably the quantities or dollar amounts of Japanese goods which can be exported to this country.

Cromley

We may see more and more Japanese products partly assembled or "finished" in America. More Japanese concerns may set up subsidiaries here to buy into joint ownership with U.S. firms making the same products.

This reporter has talked with Japanese businessmen who have been shopping throughout the United States for firms to buy these past several years in anticipation of tighter U.S. import restrictions, whether these come about by U.S. law or through agreement between Tokyo and Washington.

Some Japanese firms have been setting the stage for several years to enter the U.S. market through subsidiaries in Canada, partly because of what the Japanese consider to be more favorable investing conditions in that country, and partly because through a combination of Japanese imports and Canadian assembly (in Japanese plants) a profitable penetration of the 50 American states would be possible with less danger of quotas being applied on parts and sub-assemblies.

Meanwhile, almost unnoticed, a considerable amount of Asian investment has been moving into North America, principally Canada and the United States.

The principal sources are Japan and Hong Kong.

Ottawa has in fact begun a drive to lure Japanese investments to offset the staggering growth of the U.S. dollar stake in that northern country.

It is reported in Asia that side-by-side with this Canadian welcome mat for the Japanese investor is a program to get Japanese professional and technical men to emigrate to British Columbia and other western provinces. (This is understood to be part and parcel of a Canadian drive for technicians worldwide. Recruiting is going on in Britain, Italy, France, West Germany and in other countries where the technical and scientific pool of men and women is large).

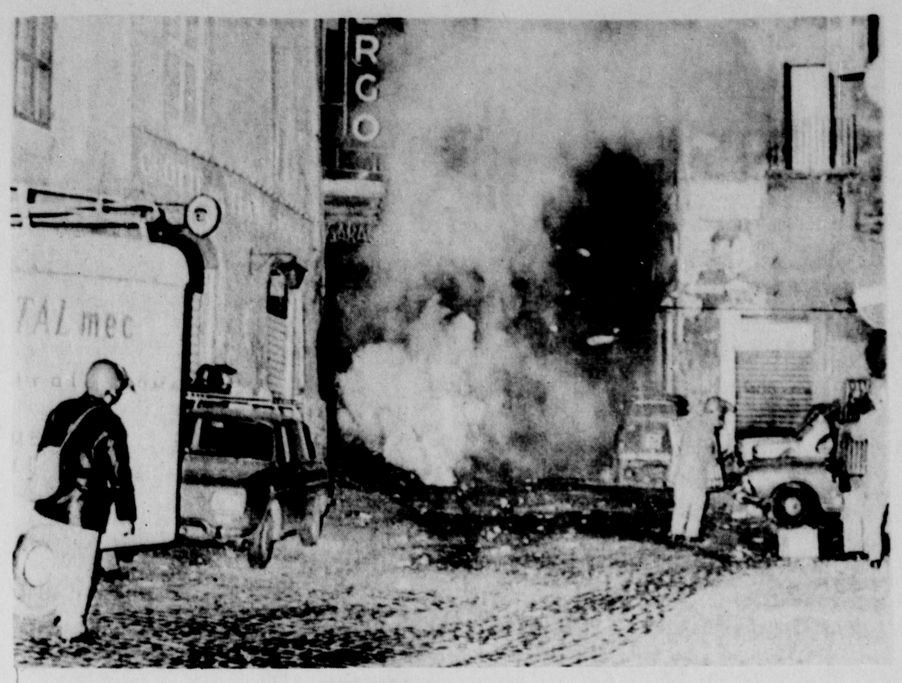
Japan overall is expected to add somewhat over a billion dollars to its overseas investments in 1973. This compares with increases of $600 million to $900 million a year beginning in 1968.

From 1961 through 1967 new Japanese overseas investments were running at only $100 million to $275 million a year. The increase has been made possible, of course, by Japan's continuing favorable balances in trade.

Of the total $4.5 billion Japan has invested abroad, almost a fourth is in North America, followed closely by Asia. Europe and Latin America roughly tie for third place.

Historically, Japanese investments abroad have been made to insure a regular and reasonably priced source of raw materials for her industry. In more recent years, the Japanese have invested in such places as Hong Kong and South Korea to take advantage of lower labor costs.

The newest Japanese drive, as noted above, is aimed at part in insuring that import restrictions will not keep Japanese goods out of highly profitable markets in the United States and elsewhere.



Violence in Rome

Speculation Up On Viet Peace Hope

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stepped-up negotiations in Paris and speechmaking in Saigon have produced speculation but little solid information here about prospects for the proposed accord to end the Vietnam war.

A widespread assumption among Washington officials is that presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger is making progress in his secret sessions with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho and that he will return to the White House shortly.

But the North Vietnamese were reported as very tough in the Paris negotiations, and hopes for a fast wrapup of peace details admittedly have dimmed.

Just before Kissinger headed for Paris Nov. 19, authoritative U.S. sources anticipated that a cease-fire pact would be nailed down around mid-December.

One U.S. official now says he knows of no major hitches to prevent an agreement by the end of the year. Another official said he does not expect any signing before Christmas.

These officials are among many here whose duties relate to Vietnam, but who say they are clued in not at all or only in part to the reporting from the U.S. negotiators in Paris. Kissinger's messages to President Nixon rank among Washington's tightest secrets.

The White House and the State Department stayed mum on Vietnam diplomatic developments Tuesday except for an announcement by presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler that Kissinger would attend a further session in Paris Wednesday.

With his jet plane standing by, the presidential envoy could be back in Washington within hours.

There also has been word, however, that he may make a final journey to Saigon to try to persuade a reluctant President Nguyen Van Thieu to go along with the proposed peace package.

Neither the White House nor the State Department commented on Thieu's heralded speech Tuesday to the South Vietnamese National Assembly.

Privately, U.S. officials suggested it would not alter the course of the Paris talks.

Thieu proposed a truce starting before Christmas to last sometime into the new year, a pre-Christmas exchange of prisoners of war, and negotiations among the Vietnamese for a political settlement.

It was noted here that Thieu must have known his proposition would be rejected by the Communists, as the Viet Cong delegation speedily did in Paris.

Presumably Thieu hoped to demonstrate his independent status and build public support for his position as a peace agreement neared, a U.S. official said.

Leftist Furor Felt in Rome

ROME (AP) — Thousands of rampaging leftist and anarchist youths turned Rome's historic piazzas, gaily decorated for Christmas, into battlegrounds Tuesday night over a bombing trial delayed for three years.

Rome took the brunt of violence as young extremists took to the streets in several Italian cities demanding the release of 12 anarchists and leftists rounded up after the Milan bank bombing on Dec. 12, 1969.

At least 38 persons were injured and 45 arrested during the demonstrations.

Roman youths staged three hours of violence, setting fire to dozens of cars and throwing fire bombs and stones at police. The police replied with night sticks and tear-gas barrages. Clouds of the acrid gas drove many residents from their apartments.

Christmas stalls were torn down in the Piazza Navona by youths who also stormed through the Campo de Fiori and the Largo Arenula.

Fire bombs were thrown at the offices of Il Popolo, the newspaper of the ruling Christian Democratic party. One band of youths forced a bus driver to block a main street with his vehicle.

Traffic was at a standstill as police and firemen rushed from one disturbance to another. Burning cars lit the night, and sirens wailed for hours.

In Milan, bands of roving youths harassed 8,000 riot police with clubs, bricks, iron bars and fire bombs. Ten policemen were injured and seven demonstrators arrested.

In Naples, three persons were hospitalized by an explosion at a young Communists' youth rally.

The demonstrators were demanding the freeing of Pietro Valpreda, an anarchist and ballet dancer, and 11 others arrested after the Milan bank explosion that killed 16 persons and injured 100.

The case has become a major political issue since two neo-Fascists, Giovanni Ventura and Franco Freda, were charged four months ago with masterminding the explosion. A large segment of the public has believed all along that the bombing was the work of the neo-Fascists rather than the anarchists and leftists.

The long delay in bringing those originally charged to trial has also heightened criticism of the country's judicial system.

Sledding Accident Is Fatal For Boy

RICHMOND, Mo. (AP) — A 14-year-old northwest Missouri boy was killed Tuesday in a sledding accident near his Dockery home.

The victim was identified as Gary Durbin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Durbin. Authorities said the youth's head struck a post while he was sledding with two companions in a field. He was pronounced dead at Ray County Hospital in nearby Richmond.

Much Hinges On the Knees Of Gridders

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

DALLAS, Tex. — (NEA) — The knee, if you'll forgive the clashing metaphor, is the Achilles heel of the professional football player. It's a hinge which just wasn't made to withstand the collisions of fast-moving big humans. Thus operations on the knee, with the advance of medical technology, have become as commonplace in sports as the dissection of a frog in Biology I.

But the bang on the knee involves more than physical ordeal. Danny Reeves knew this as he stood on the sideline in front of the Dallas Cowboy bench one recent game and saw Jimmy Johnson of the San Francisco 49ers collapse in front of him.

Danny, who serves as a combination coach, spare quarterback and part-time halfback for the Cowboys, has had eight operations on his knees. He had an idea what Johnson was going through as he writhed on the ground, clutching his left knee, while from across the field the 49ers' trainer, Linc Kimura, and team doctor, Lloyd Milburn, rushed to deliver first aid.

Besides Danny, a whole covey of Cowboys clustered around Johnson, which was unusual, because football players, especially those from the other team, are studiously insensitive to injury on the field of combat. They're aware that at any time it could be one of them who's stretched out on the artificial turf in what could be his last involvement with this precarious game of football. So they ignore the fallen man, not because they're calloused but because it's less traumatic.

However, Johnson drew attention because he's somebody special. "I've known him since I was a senior in college," said Bob Lilly, the admired all-pro tackle of the Cowboys, who was on the edge of the crowd. "He's a very popular player. The other guys respect him for his ability and his character. It was natural for us to be concerned."

Now Danny Reeves had never been formally introduced to Johnson. But he remembered how it had been when he tore up his knee back in 1968 in St. Louis.

"I was on the wrong side of the field, too, like Jimmy," recalled Reeves. "Nobody had any feeling for me. Jimmy's one of the great pros. I knew what he was going through. I could see him just squeezing his hands in pain. You want something to grab on to."

Danny, leaning over him, said solicitously to Johnson, "Why don't you just grab on to my ankles?"

Johnson grimaced and nodded and the fingers of his hands wrapped around Reeves' ankle so tightly the knuckles stood out in relief.

"Man, it hurts so bad when you get a knee," mused Danny sympathetically. "It feels like you're on fire. Like somebody got a hot poker and just stuck it in there.

"I've had a broken collar bone. But it's nothing like a knee. The pain is unbelievable."

Yet one recalls vividly that many players with knee injuries which required operations have quietly hobbled off the field on their own power. Even Gale Sayers, whose career went into its ultimate tailspin when Kermit Alexander crashed him from the side just as he planted his right knee in the turf, limped to the sidelines before going into surgery later that same night. Danny himself walked to the dressing room when he first hurt his knee.

"It cools off after the initial sensation," he explains. "Then the muscles get so tight you don't have any looseness. Once they've iced it down, the pain is all gone but the damage remains."

Artificial turf is a possible contributor to the extra rash of knee injuries. On regular turf, most knee injuries come when a man is hit just as the leg is planted and rigid. On artificial turf, underlaid with asphalt and unyielding, a man lands on the hard surface and gets hurt. Jerry Levias, the San Diego receiver, was lost for the season when he came down on a knee on the artificial turf of Candlestick Park. In Dallas' spanking new stadium, Johnson, too, was hurt when he landed on his knee after making a tackle.

In his case, however, there was redemption. After the initial searing pain had passed, the doctor's diagnosis was quite hopeful. Jimmy only had a knee sprain.

Meanwhile, it was nice to have Reeves' ankle to clutch in his agony, a moment of concern and consideration that's not often noted in the heat of competition.

Expansion Plans

ABA Eyes New Sites

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The American Basketball Association owners, more confident than ever in their league's survival, have taken steps to expand into two new cities next season.

ABA Commissioner Robert Carlson said the owners voted Tuesday to accept applications for the additional franchises and he said the trustees hope to expand the league into larger television market areas.

He named Los Angeles, Chicago, Philadelphia, Jersey Meadows and Honolulu as strong possibilities.

Carlson also expressed confidence in the ABA's future. "I've been connected with this league since May, 1969. "I've seen ownerships go up and down and up again.

"But never have I seen more stable ownerships than at the present time, particularly in regard to the new buildings going up in Indianapolis, San Diego and Denver," he said.

The commissioner said applicants will be interviewed in February at the All-Star Game in Salt Lake City.

The issue of expansion remains connected to the proposed merger with the older National Basketball Association. A new merger committee was named, with Charles O. Finley, owner of the Memphis Tams, its chairman.

The ABA also approved a hardship draft to be held next spring, a move which owner Leonard Blood of the San Diego Conquistadores said opens the way for his team to negotiate with All-America center Bill Walton of UCLA.

Carlson refused to comment on whether the 6-foot-11 Walton, a junior, would be eligible for the draft. But a smiling Bloom said after the meeting, "We got what we came for. We wanted a shot at signing him, and now we will get it."

The Dallas Chaparrals' draft rights to Walton will expire when the ABA holds its hardship draft, Bloom said. The Conquistadors, playing its first season in the league, would have first pick in the hardship draft.

The owners also approved the proposed sale of the Denver Rockets to a group headed by San Diego furniture executive Hank Goldburt, Carlson said. He indicated the team would remain in Denver.

No Malignancy Found in Tests

CINCINNATI (AP) — Final tests on a lesion removed Monday from the right lung of Cincinnati Reds' catcher Johnny Bench verify the inflammation was benign, Reds' team physician Dr. George Ballou announced today.

"The permanent microscopic section of the tissue removed has confirmed that there was no evidence of any malignancy," Ballou said in a terse statement issued at Christ Hospital this morning.

Ballou also said Bench was being removed from the intensive care ward and placed in a private room.

Ballou and Dr. Luis Gonzalez, Bench's personal physician who performed the surgery, said Monday that preliminary tests showed the lesion to be benign.

Bench is expected to be hospitalized another week, with full recovery expected before the opening of major league baseball's spring training.

Jones Boys Star On ABA Courts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The Virginia Squires and New York Nets had trouble keeping up with the Joneses Tuesday night.

James Jones' 25 points led the Utah Stars to a 123-104 American Basketball Association rout of Virginia while Rich Jones pumped in 31 as the Dallas Chaparrals turned back New York 105-98. In the only other contest, Denver beat San Diego 110-103 in overtime.

After a seesaw first quarter in which the lead changed hands nine times, Utah opened up a 14-point lead in the second period and boosted the bulge to 29 at the start of the fourth period. Zelmo Beaty added 23 points for the Stars while Julius Erving topped Virginia with 24.

Dallas finished off the Nets in the first half, piling up a 68-43 spread after two periods and turning back a second-half rally. It was the fifth triumph in seven games for the Chaps, who also got 22 points from Bob Netolicky. John Roche had 25 for the Nets, who played without regulars Bill Melchionni and Billy Paultz.

Dave Robisch, a lanky lefty, scored six overtime points as Denver defeated San Diego, handing the expansion Conquistadors their eighth straight loss.

The Qs jumped to an early 17-3 lead stayed ahead until Robisch's short jump shot with 6½ minutes left in regulation time tied the score at 86. Warren Jabali of the Rockets scored with two seconds remaining to send the game into overtime.

Despite his heroics, Robisch surrendered team scoring honors to Ralph Simpson, who had 26, two more than Robisch.

Killebrew Scheduled For Foot Surgery

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Harmon Killebrew, Minnesota Twins first baseman, entered St. Mary's Hospital Tuesday for surgery.

A Twins' spokesman said surgeons would remove a benign bone lesion from Killebrew's right big toe and also correct a contraction of the second toe on the foot.

Killebrew previously underwent surgery for removal of varicose veins from his leg.

Backs of Week

Brockington, Lane Share Offense Nod

NEW YORK (AP) — John Brockington and MacArthur Lane, the running bulls who ignited Green Bay to new post-Lombardi heights, shared today the honor of NFL offensive player of the week.

Brockington, a second-year pro from Ohio State, ran for 114 yards and topped 1,000 for the second straight season—the first man to accomplish that feat his first two years in the league—as the Packers slammed Minnesota 23-7.

The Pack, 9-4, locked up the National Conference Central Division title against the Vikings and are headed for a Christmas Eve playoff game against the Redskins in Washington.

Lane came to Green Bay in a trade with St. Louis. The Packers gave up onetime $600,000 bonus boy Donny Anderson and it's working out wonderfully.

The 225-pound veteran from Utah State crunched for 99 yards against Minnesota and broke a key 37-yarder that set up the first Packer score.

"Both these guys appreciate what the offensive line does for them," said Packer Coach Dan Devine. "I like that. Any coach likes that."

Devine said the 220-pound Brockington had "his best blocking games the past two weeks. And Lane, from what I've seen and heard, is one of the best blocking backs in the National Football League."

Green Bay hasn't been so excited over its Packers since the late Vince Lombardi quit as coach in 1967. The Pack had suffered through a 24-29-3 record including Devine's rookie season of 1971.

If Green Bay can upset Washington, the Packers would earn the host role for the National Conference championship game and the Devine boys would be one step from the Super Bowl that the Packers twice won in the Lombardi Era.

Other NFL offensive stars receiving serious consideration were Cincinnati wide receiver Chip Myers, St. Louis quarterback Jim Hart, Kansas City runner Wendell Hayes, Miami runner Mercury Morris, San Diego wide receiver Gary Garrison and New York Jets quarterback Joe Namath.

Two Locked in MVC Cage Scoring Battle

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The scoring leadership of the Missouri Valley Conference basketball race is tightly held by Willie Biles of Tulsa and John Williamson of New Mexico State.

In four games each, the two have scored 123 points for a 30.8 average. Biles leads Williamson 52-48 in field goals but Williamson has sunk eight more free throws.

Team offense is led by Drake with a 94.6 per game average compared with 88.8 for Tulsa. St. Louis leads in defense, holding opponents to 65.3 points per game. Louisville is second with a 66.8 average.

The rebound leader in the conference is Larry Kenon of Memphis State with an average of 16 per game. Reginald Ramey of West Texas State is second with 15.

In early-season play valley teams hold a 23-15 edge over outside competition.

Conference teams have also found a tremendous advantage in playing at home. They have won 23 of 25 games played on home courts but are 0-11 on the road and 0-2 on nuetral courts.

Pitchers Make Up Bulk Of Hall of Fame Ballot

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight new names—six of them pitchers—showed up on ballots for election to baseball's Hall of Fame which were mailed Tuesday.

The new eligibles include Warren Spahn, winningest lefthander in major league history, Whitey Ford, Robin Roberts, Vern Law, Lou Burdette, Curt Simmons, Smokey Burgess and Dick Groat. Burgess, a catcher and pinch hitting star, and shortstop Groat are the only non-pitchers added to this year's list of eligibles.

The eight new names were added by a screening committee of baseball writers who sifted through all of the players who became eligible for election this year to pare the list down. To be eligible, a player must have performed for 10 seasons in the majors and have been retired for five years.

Election is in the hands of some 450 or so veteran members of the Baseball Writers Association of America. A player must be named on 75 per cent of the ballots in order to be elected.

John Garrett Does It All

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

When John Garrett was growing up—very far up—in Peru, Indiana, his idol was Rick Mount, who, at the time, was busy shattering Purdue University's basketball scoring records.

So it was no surprise when Garrett followed Mount to Purdue. And if the speedy Mount was the best little man ever to play for the Boilermakers, then Garrett, who's grown up to a hefty 6-foot-11, may be the best big one. Garrett averaged almost 27 points per game as a freshman last year and hit on an amazing 53 per cent of his field goal attempts. That's the kind of shooting that excites basketball people and Garrett kept the juices flowing Tuesday night with a virtual one-man show that moved the Boilermakers to a 66-65 victory over Miami of Ohio.

All the young man did was score 18 of Purdue's last 24 points including the winning basket with one second left to play. That gave him 29 points on 13 of 22 shots from the field and, in case you're wondering, that's 59 per cent accuracy.

Maryland's Tom McMillen was almost as hot at the start of the third-ranked Terrapins' 99-73 victory over Georgetown as Garrett was for Purdue.

McMillen scored nine of his team's first 19 points and finished with 29 for the night. He also grabbed 15 rebounds as Maryland dominated the outmanned Hoyas, who started three freshmen.

You can't knock frosh to Arizona. The Wildcats used five of them for most of the second half against San Diego State and came out with a 79-70 victory.

Steve Downing tapped a rebound of a missed free throw in for Indiana's winning basket as the 15th-ranked Hoosiers escaped with a 69-67 victory over gritty Notre Dame.

Indiana was down by as many as 13 points in the second half before launching a comeback.

"I'm just happy to go home a winner after a game like this," said Bob Knight, Indiana's coach.

Knight's old Army team came out a winner too, but barely, squeezing by Northeastern 70-68 on two free throws by Doug Crewse with no time left on the clock at the end of an overtime period.

There were other last-second foul shot heroics too.

Little Harry Larrabee connected on eight crucial 1-and-1 free throws in the final minutes as Texas nipped 19th-ranked Memphis State 80-79.

Brien O'Neill's five foul shots in the final 30 seconds clinched Princeton's 69-65 victory over Virginia.

No. 8 Calls it Quits

Wilson Will Retire After '72 Season

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The red and white jersey bearing No. 8 will be seen for the last time Sunday at Busch Memorial Stadium in St. Louis when the Cardinals host the Philadelphia Eagles in the last National Football League game of the season for both teams.

Cardinal safety Larry Wilson, who perfected the 'safety blitz', announced during a press conference Tuesday that he would retire this year, and at the same time the Big Red announced they would retire the jersey he has torn and dirtied in 13 seasons with the team.

"I know Larry Wilson right now is not able to do the things that he did four or five years ago," said Wilson, who was the team's seven-round draft choice from Utah in 1960. He holds ten team records.

He has been used by the Cardinals as a player-coach this season.

Wilson's number is the first retired by the Cardinals since the team moved to St. Louis. While in Chicago, No. 77 was retired in memory of tackle Stan Mauldin, who died of a heart attack in the team locker room after a game in 1948 and No. 99 for halfback Marshall Goldberg who retired that same season after an outstanding career.

Wilson, 34, was described at one time by former Detroit Lions quarterback Bobby Layne as pound-for-pound, the greatest player in the NFL.

Plager Scores for Blues

Lowly Islanders Manage 4-4 Tie With the Blues

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When you've managed only eight points in 26 games, the worst one-third of a season in National Hockey League history, every little bit helps—like the one point the New York Islanders picked up Tuesday night.

The Islanders rallied from a 3-1 deficit to go in front but settled for a 4-4 standoff with St. Louis when the Blues' Fran Huck swept a rebound past New York goalie Billy Smith midway through the final period.

Still, the 3-21-3 Islanders, who snapped a seven-game losing streak but haven't won in 10 starts, weren't about to sneer at one measly point—only their ninth in 27 starts.

"We're getting a little more experience playing together," said Terry Crisp, who set up Craig Cameron's go-ahead goal early in the third period. "We're playing better now," added the beleaguered Smith, who was fired upon 42 times in the New York net while his teammates managed only 22 shots at St. Louis' Wayne Stephenson.

In the only other NHL game, the Chicago Black Hawks beat the Vancouver Canucks 5-1.

In World Hockey Association action, it was Quebec 5, Philadelphia 2; Houston 6, Alberta 4 and Los Angeles 3, Minnesota 3 in overtime.

Stan Mikita scored his 12th and 13th goals of the season to spark Chicago past Vancouver and enable the Black Hawks to open a three-point lead over idle Minnesota in the NHL West Division.

Andre Gaudette scored three goals, one in each period, to lead Quebec over Philadelphia in the WHA. His second-period goal came with teammate Jean Guy Gendron in the penalty box.

Frank Hughes scored twice for Houston as the Aeros' ended a four-game losing streak by downing Alberta and Mike Byers' goal late in the third period enabled Los Angeles to salvage its tie with Minnesota. The Sharks and Fighting Saints remained deadlocked for second place in the West Division.

MSHSAA State Indoor Track Meet Is Dropped

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri State High School Activities Association revealed today it is dropping the state high school indoor track meet.

The meet, held the past 42 years at Brewer Field House at the University of Missouri here, was dropped by a vote of association member schools, the association said. The vote was 313-72.

A proposal submitted to the schools called, instead, for a total of 14 dual invitational or conference track meets excluding the district and state outdoor championships.

Major reasons for dropping the indoor meet, said an association source, included rising costs of athletic programs and the fact that most schools have no indoor facilities.

Weather Forces Bengals Inside

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Tigers continued preparations Tuesday for their Dec. 23 Fiesta Bowl date with Arizona State. With less than favorable conditions outside, the Bengals were forced to hold their 90-minute workout indoors.

Coach Al Onofrio said he has just about given up hope for any kind of drill outside before the team departs for Tempe, Ariz., Dec. 20. Sleet, rain and ice have combined with cold weather to keep the Bengals inside the past week.

Onofrio added that with semester examinations beginning Thursday, it will make it impossible for the entire team to work out together.

SFCC, Highland Date Tentative

The State Fair Community College basketball game with the Highland, Kan., Scotties has tentatively rescheduled for Dec. 22.

Bad weather conditions forced postponement of the game Tuesday night.

Vincennes Heads JuCo Cage Poll

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Vincennes, Ind., University Junior College took first place in the season's initial National Junior College Athletic Association basketball poll.

Vincennes, with eight wins and one loss, edged out Casper, Wyo., College, which has 7 wins and no losses.

Tied for third were Hutchinson, Kan., and College of Southern Idaho at Twin Falls.

Others in the top 10 are Dalton, Ga.; Pensacola, Fla.; Gulf Coast Community College of Panama City, Fla.; Robert Morris College of Coraopolis, Pa., and Wilbur Wright College of Chicago, tied for 8th; and Anderson, S.C.

Bulls Lose

Officials Don't Allow Last Shot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chet Walker missed a foul shot but grabbed the rebound and let fly with a 30-footer.

The ball sailed through the basket to give the Chicago Bulls an apparent National Basketball Association victory over the Los Angeles Lakers at the overtime buzzer Tuesday night.

But referees Mark Mano and Paul Mihalik disallowed the shot and instead awarded a 106—105 triumph to the Lakers. The official ruling was that the "clock failed to start after Walker's foul shot hit the rim."

But the Chicago crowd was in no mood for technicalities. The hometown fans roared in anger while Bulls' General Manager Pat Williams had to explain the ruling over the loud speaker system.

Then, shortly after Williams made his explanation to the crowd, he announced that the club would protest the referees' decision.

"I'm confident of winning this protest," said Williams, "because we have the video tape. It will show that the referees did not signal for the clock to start and therefore the Bulls should have been awarded the victory.

"The timer told me he never got the signal and his word is good enough for me."

In the other NBA games Tuesday night, the Buffalo Braves stopped the Houston Rockets 95-94; the Kansas City-Omaha Kings nipped the Cleveland Cavaliers 100-99; the New York Knicks walloped the Atlanta Hawks 114-93; the Baltimore Bullets trimmed the Philadelphia 76ers 123-102 and the Milwaukee Bucks thrashed the Portland Trail Blazers 115-94.

In the Chicago-Los Angeles match, Walker had sent the game into overtime with two free throws to tie the score at 98. In the closing seconds of the overtime period, the star forward was in a similar situation when he made his first foul to bring the Bulls within one point. Then came the controversial shot.

Elmore Smith scored 25 points and grabbed 22 rebounds to lead Buffalo's victory; Nate Archibald's 12-foot jumper with seven seconds left powered Kansa City-Omaha past Cleveland; Walt Frazier scored 29 points for New York; Mike Riordan had a career-high 31 points for Baltimore and Milwaukee buried Portland under a 38-9 blitz in the third period.

Joe Greene Is Selected On Defense

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Follow the bouncing bodies and you'll find Joe Greene, the kind of defensive tackle who makes guards think about going into the insurance business.

"I love to be where the action is," says the free-spirited 270-pounder who plies his trade for the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League.

Greene ruled the field from sideline to sideline Sunday in Pittsburgh's brutually fought 9-3 victory over Houston and earned recognition as the Associated Press Defensive Player of the Week in the NFL.

By game's end he had blocked a field goal try, forced and recovered a key fumble, sacked the quarterback five times and made six crushing solo tackles.

'Peoples' Lives Ruined'

Baltimore Colts Decline and Fall

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO — (NEA) — Bill Curry knows in his own mind he won't be back with the Baltimore Colts next year. Already he has been mentally canvassing the other 25 teams in the National Football League to determine which can use a good center.

"He's the best in football," says Red Miller, who handles the offensive line for the Colts.

Curry smiles and says thanks but knows he's gone. He had the temerity to state publicly that the Colts' management committed a "gross miscarriage of justice" when it abruptly fired Don McCafferty as head coach after the fifth game this season.

Curry and his temmates are traumatized by what has happened to the Colts this season. They lost seven of their first nine games.

"The worst part of it," says Bill, "is that peoples' lives are being ruined."

That sounds melodramatic. But McCafferty, a gentle man whom the players liked, is gone. Johnny Unitas, 39 and the guts of the team for 15 years, was abruptly benched and watches grimly from the sidelines. When he got in for his first play in four games, against the 49ers, he symbolically groveled on the ground after he was caught for a big loss and lost the football. Norm Bulaich, injury-prone but the team's greatest running threat, is probably gone.

Professional football involves careers as well as games.

"A man has entrepreneurial rights," says Bob Vogel deliberately. "But personally I think he's wrong. Joe Thomas is going to wreck the Colts."

Bill Curry

The transition from the paternal patronage of Carroll Rosenbloom, who swapped the Colts for the Los Angeles Rams, to the impersonal ownership of Robert Irsay, manifested through his tough new general manager, Joe Thomas, has produced a sullen imprint on team attitude.

Vogel has played offensive left tackle since 1963 and been an all-pro several times. He's a successful businessman outside of football. He's dismayed by what he's seen in it. Writers are reluctant to quote his stronger statements because Bob is a responsible, thoughtful man and you wouldn't want to damage his career.

But he, too, will retire after this season, although he is only 31.

"Thomas," he says, "has never before had this kind of responsibility in dealing with people. He doesn't have the experience. He completely neglects the human element. And the owner doesn't know anything about football."

The Colts, in a sense, had been spoiled. Since Curry joined them in 1967, Dallas was the only team in pro football which showed more regular season victories (54 to 53). During that stretch, the Colts played in two Super Bowls and won one.

They aren't that much different in personnel this year, except that Bubba Smith, the huge defensive end, was lost for the season with a damaged knee and that took away a lot of their vital pass rush.

They are psychically scarred, as well.

"I'm an emotional slob," says Curry, who's actually an articulate spokesman for the veterans and has served as the team's player representative. "I've cried after games we've lost. Now I sort of expect it. That's the losing attitude."

When the Colts blew a game to the New York Jets in the closing minute on a freak play, a defensive back batting the ball to a Jet receiver for the decisive touchdown, Curry fell to the ground. He was watching the play from the sidelines.

"I physically collapsed," he says, "as corny as that sounds."

It's personally tough on Bill because before the Colts he played for the Lombardiled Green Bay Packers, who always won, and as a collegian he was the spearhead for victorious Georgia Tech teams.

"I haven't been on a losing team," he shakes his head, "since my ninth grade baseball team in 1956."

Kenna Calls Signals For Manufacturers

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — You may remember the new president of the National Association of Manufacturers as the smooth quarterback who handed off the ball to Blanchard and Davis, the touchdown twins of the great Army teams of the mid-1940s.

E. Douglas Kenna, much honored himself as a football and basketball player and coach, now is calling signals for an organization that generally doesn't hear the applause of the multitude or the praise of the critics.

The NAM is made up of 12,275 members, all top officers of their organizations, all men and women of very positive opinions that they seldom fail to articulate. "They wouldn't be there if they didn't," said Kenna.

One job facing Kenna is to attract more members to NAM. Like other associations in recent years, it has shrunk in size. In 1962, its rolls numbered 16,327, but recession and business consolidations have taken a toll.

Although he accepted the job on very little notice, Kenna expects he will be able to work easily with the association's 172-man board, even though that board often is not in total agreement.

The common goal that unites them despite differences on matters such as import controls is, said Kenna, that "they are all for a good and healthy business environment."

Does such an environment sometimes conflict with other national goals, he was asked. "Yes," Kenna replied after reflecting, "there will be areas of conflict. There must be tradeoffs."

He spoke clearly, very calmly, very certainly, with a slight Mississippi accent, drawing slowly on a fine, slim cigar. He is 48, still athletic looking and inclined to dress less conservatively than some NAM members.

"We need a policy in which you wind up with a compromise," he said. "We must take the rational course. That is the policy we seek."

That philosophy was restated many times by Kenna as he prepared to take over from W. P. Gullander, who held the job of permanent president for 10 years, at the recent annual meeting.

It is not unusual as it might appear for a West Pointer to follow a business career after fulfilling his military obligations. At least one study shows that service-academy personnel, on a per graduate basis, occupy more top corporate jobs than the product of any top business school.

Nader Asks Crackdown Over Use of DES

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fearful of a "possible second cancer epidemic" from the controversial drug DES, Ralph Nader is urging the Food and Drug Administration to crack down on its use as a morning-after birth-control pill.

The consumer advocate's Health Research Group issued an eight-page report Monday charging that university health clinics are handing out diethylstilbestrol—DES—without warning coeds that they and their possible offspring are being exposed to a risk of cancer.

"It is clear that widespread and totally uncontrolled use of DES as a morning-after pill is a serious problem with possibly heavy, although unknown, consequences for the public health," the report said. "The drug industry, the FDA and the doctors must act to prevent this abuse."

The deputy director of FDA's Bureau of Drugs, Dr. Marion Finkel, said the agency hopes to resolve the problem within a few weeks.

The FDA's National Drug Advisory Committee has concluded tentatively that DES effectively prevents pregnancy within 72 hours after intercourse, she said.

"What we don't know is certain safety problems and the degree of efficacy," she added.

Drug companies, she said, have not responded to FDA appeals for further research so "I think we're going to have to come to a decision without the help of manufacturers."

DES, a synthetic hormone, has been linked to vaginal cancer in about 100 women whose mothers took it during the 1940s and 1950s to avoid miscarriage. It since has been judged ineffective for that use, and now is prescribed most often for post-menopausal complications.

The Nader group said the unapproved use of DES as a postcoital contraceptive "has apparently been going on uncurbed for a number of years."

The report mentioned specifically the University of Michigan, which has treated more than 1,000 young women with DES, and the University of Pennsylvania, which has FDA approval for investigating its use in treating rape victims.

Medical officials at the Pennsylvania and Michigan schools discounted the warnings.

"I've not seen anything yet in medical literature that anything has happened to the mothers" who used DES, said Dr. Paul F. Schrode, director of student health services at the University of Pennsylvania.

Poor Pay for Hard Work

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — After one week in domestic service, a St. Paul newspaper writer concluded that household workers "should receive maximum pay and be elevated to sainthood."

Mary Jane Saunders of the St. Paul Pioneer Press wanted to find out what conditions a domestic worker has to cope with. She answered ads for domestics, applied through agencies and various services, went for interviews and then went to work as a maid.

One man wanted her to go with him to Tennessee on weekends, Miss Saunders wrote in reporting her findings. One woman got mad when Miss Saunders talked about benefits. Another didn't want to give holidays off because that's when she entertains a lot.

"I learned that people may be desperate for household help, but they don't boost their offers of pay," the reporter wrote.

The average pay offered was well below the federal minimum. One suburban woman offered 50 cents an hour for a baby-sitting job. She couldn't quite understand Miss Saunders' protest that the pay was too little

"Well, when you work only two days a week, take out transportation, lunches and so forth, you can't pay more or it doesn't pay to work," the woman told Miss Saunders.

The reporter wondered how the woman could have thought it would pay anyone to work for her. Miss Saunders also couldn't help wondering if the woman ever found anyone willing to work for 50 cents an hour.

"My heart goes out to the woman who took the job offered by a woman in Edina (a Minneapolis suburb) who wanted a live-in light-housekeeper and baby-sitter for $25 a week plus room and board," the reporter wrote. "She couldn't be bothered with benefits and was angry that I mentioned it. She wanted my references but resented my asking for hers."

"Her 'gal' would be expected to be working before 7:30 a.m. every day to feed the children who get up at that time — earlier if the children change their minds — be on duty through the evening meals and dishes, baby-sit evenings and weekends as the family goes out often."

"And what about holidays?" Miss Saunders asked the woman.

"I entertain a lot and will need you especially on those days," the woman replied.

The cash offered in most cases was so inadequate a person would be unable to provide medical care, clothing, entertainment or anything else for herself.

One man, during a telephone interview, seemed more interested in the sociable than in the negotiable aspects of an arrangement. A country music entertainer, the man invited the job hunter to travel with him on weekends to Tennessee, where he has engagements.

"We could all move into my house where we would 'make like one happy family'," the man suggested.

"I mentioned being black but that was all right with him because he 'used to have a mammy and she whupped me 'til I liked to die'," Miss Saunders wrote.

The reporter went to the man's house for a personal interview. The man has three children. From the looks of the house, the reporter wrote, "a herd of buffalo, all smeared with peanut butter and jelly, had been locked in there to roam for six months...There were several thicknesses of dirt and grime everywhere."

Miss Saunders tried to get him to discuss fringe benefits — besides his collard greens in the backyard and his offer of trips to Tennessee. The man told her not to worry, that he was honest and didn't want to cheat anybody.

The attitudes of people during personal interviews varied. Most were polite but Miss Saunders sensed condescension on the part of many, even when they were trying to be very tolerant. At least 10 housewives were glad to see she was black. Some "didn't have a prejudiced bone" in their bodies. Others said she would be "a good experience for their children."

In several homes the housewives told Miss Saunders she would be the manager and could do anything she wanted.

"But I got the impression through conversation it was just another way of saying I would do nearly everything," she concluded.

Attend Nursing Seminar

A total of 13 licensed practical nurses and students from Sedalia were among 549 who attended a recent seminar at the University of Missouri-Columbia on "Nursing the Difficult and Psychotic Patient."

The objectives of the seminar were "to assist the LPN in a better understanding of herself in the care of patients with mental problems."

The seminar was sponsored by the National Association for Practical Nurse Education and Service, the Missouri State Association of Licensed Practical Nurses, UMC Nursing and extension division.

OES Installs Officers

Mrs. Van L. Davis was installed worthy matron and Francis Rudd, worthy patron, of Pettis Chapter No. 279 Order of the Eastern Star in a ceremony Saturday at the Masonic Temple.

Other officers installed were Mrs. John Blasingame, associate matron; Arsene Cote, associate patron; Mrs. Howard Gwinn, secretary; Mrs. Ray Crosslin, treasurer; Mrs. Evelyn Miller, conductress; Mrs. Wayne Morton, associate conductress; Mrs. Arsene Cote, chaplain; Mrs. Ann Payton, marshall; Mrs. Kathryn Edwards, Adah; Mrs. Minerva Alcorn, Ruth; Mrs. J. A. McCollum, Esther; Mrs. Margaret Slaton, Martha; Mrs. Helen Halbig, electa; Mrs. Della Mea Points, warden; and Woodrow Black, sentinel.

Installing officers were Mrs. Frank Coffman, John Owen, Mrs. John St. Clair, Mrs. Charlie Hofheins, Mrs. Mildred Downey and Mrs. James Duzan.

Mrs. Marion Meyers, junior past matron, presented the worthy matron with a bouquet of pink roses from the chapter and Van L. Davis gave her the gavel.

New officers pledged their support and cooperation. Mrs. Kermit Riley presented the past matron jewel and Marion Meyers presented the past patron jewel.

A reception hosted by the Past Matron and Past Patrons Club was held following the ceremony.

Garden Club News

Mrs. Walter Barnes, 1500 West Fourth, hosted members of Garden Club No. 8 Friday and Mrs. Gordon Voight gave a program on the painting "Madonna of the Sacred Coat" by Chambers.

Christmas arrangements were shown by Mrs. Voight and Mrs. Earl Thomas and the club voted to purchase bird seed for the bird sanctuary it maintains.

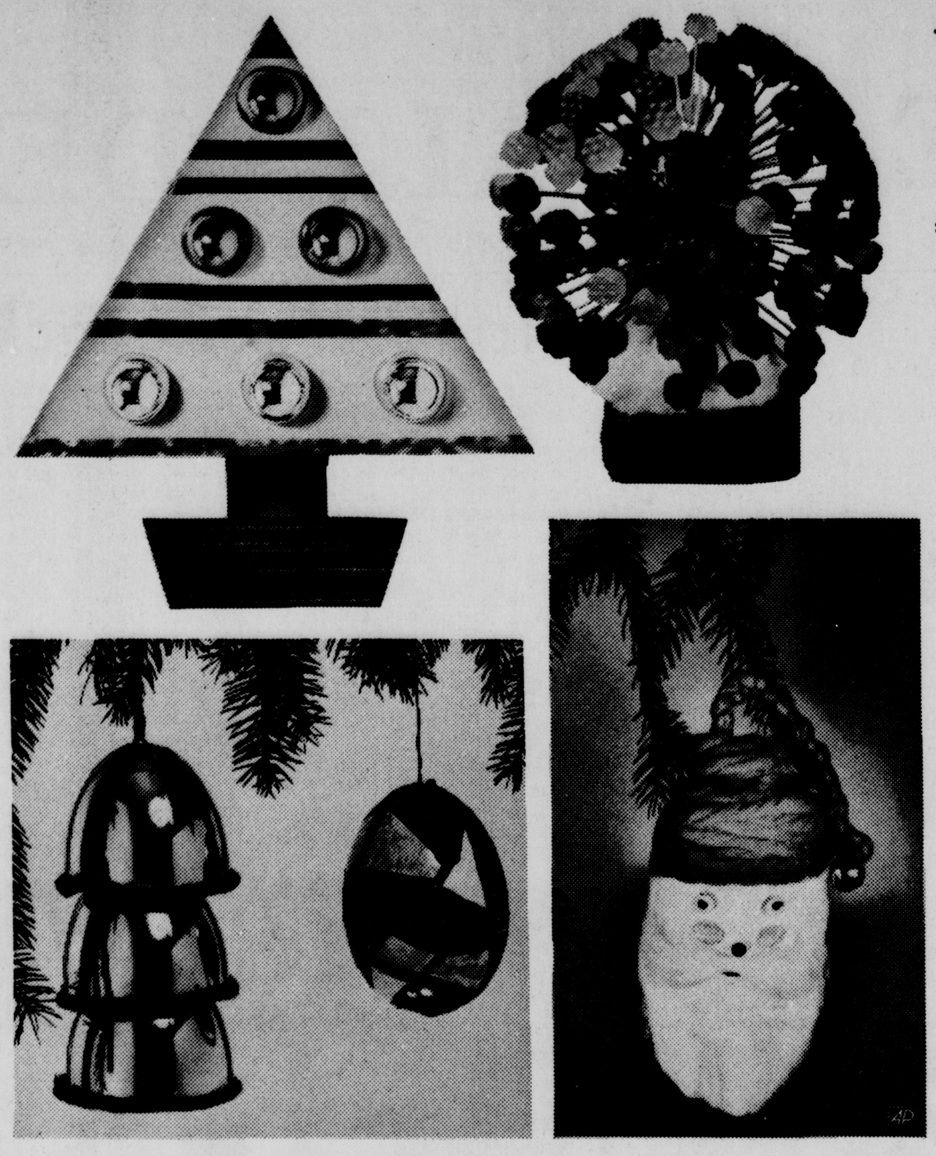
Mrs. Terry Pile presided at the meeting which closed with a gift exchange.

Club Note

Bothwell Extension Club met Friday with Mrs. Adella Hutchinson with 10 members for a Christmas party.

Officers installed for the coming year were Mrs. James Steel, president; Mrs. Frank Schouten, vice-president; Mrs. Hutchinson, secretary; and Mrs. Don Abney, treasurer.

Roll call was answered with Bible verses and members decided to help a needy family this Christmas.



Do It Yourself

Holiday decorating time has arrived with this make-it-from scratch tree, cut from cardboard, covered with bright wrapping paper, trimmed in ribbon and egg-shaped containers for hosiery. An easy-to-make candy tree, above right, uses a nail hammered into a block of wood to hold the plastic egg in place. Holes are made in the egg with a heated nail held in pliers. Yarn may be wrapped around the base, and toothpicks holding colorful holiday candies inserted in the holes. Hangups for the tree may be made from the plastic eggs by punching a hole in the top and inserting a string to hold one or several on the bough. Fluffy red yarn makes a cap, white cotton makes the bear, thumbtacks are eyes and a carpet tack is the nose for an egg-head Santa.

Epsilon Beta Gathers Food

Food items for a needy family were brought to the Thursday meeting of Epsilon Beta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi at the home of Mrs. Dutch Overmeier.

The group plans to make a Christmas basket and distribute it to a needy area family.

Plans for the Saturday Beta Sigma Phi Christmas dance were discussed and a copy of the chapter's charter was received from International headquarters.

A program presented by Mrs. Ben Pummill dealt with the art of conversing with several types of persons.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I do hope you or one of the readers can give me a remedy for silverfish. I know there are commercial preparations but I would prefer a home remedy if one is available. — C.U.

DEAR POLLY — Have you ever tried to tuck in covers on a water bed? Come winter my son is going to use his camping bed roll on top of his. — MRS. H.E.N.

DEAR POLLY — While Christmas shopping I decided I did not want to spend 50 cents for a letter sealer and stamp sticker so I made my own and found it worked great when doing all those cards and holiday letters. I wedged a piece of foam rubber into the open end of a clothespin and dampened this in a little dish of water — an instant Christmas helper. — EDITH

DEAR POLLY — I work as a medical assistant for a very busy doctor and my Pet Peeve is when patients call for appointments. After the date and time are determined they say, "Wait a minute until I find a paper and pencil to write it down." Multiply this by the 20 or more times a day such calls are received and see what a loss of time on the assistant's part. Please readers, have a pencil and paper ready when you make such calls. — J.Z.

Mind Your Money

Can Check for Nitrite Levels

By Peter Weaver

Q—I would like some information on additives that are put into locally processed foods. You mentioned the danger of nitrites. What about delicatessen products or those that are sold in other small stores? If they're not national brands, who regulates them? —Mrs. N.L.W., Washington, D.C.

A—Any food sold across state lines must be regulated by the Food and Drug Administration. Food that is processed locally and sold locally is supposed to be inspected and regulated by local authorities. Some do a pretty fair job. Others don't do much at all. They don't have the money or manpower to cope with the problem.

Dr. Jay Arena, president of the American Academy of Pediatrics and director of the Duke University Poison Control Center, says, "We've had a number of problems with local butcher shops and delicatessens that are not regulated by the FDA...some of them make heavy use of nitrites and nitrates." Overdoses of these chemicals can be poisonous, especially for young children. A real overdose can kill you.

Talk with your local delicatessen owner. Ask him (or her) where the meat comes from. If it's fresh, they usually brag about it. If it has preservatives, who puts in the additives?

If they won't tell or you can't really explain where the meat comes from, go somewhere else. Talk to your local health department. Ask about the processors of local meats.

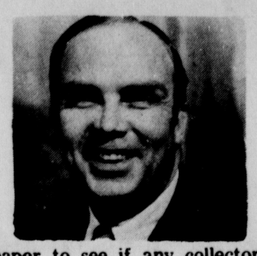
Nitrites and nitrates can cause a certain kind of anemia in small children. These chemicals are used to preserve meats and give them that fresh, rosy-red look. If you see meat that has a fresh, red look but smells funny, avoid it. It probably is well laced with nitrites or nitrates.

Q—I have an extensive collection of old, Red Seal RCA recordings, including Caruso, Scotti, Farrar, Galli Curci and Melba. I want to sell them. How do I go about it? —Mrs. R.H.F., Leesville, La.

A—The market for out-or-print records is limited. Few old albums are worth more than $5 or so on the open market. However, certain collectors might be willing to spend a great deal more than that, depending on the special voids in their own collections.

You never know about old albums. An old RCA-Victrola recording on acetate (before they had the modern record composition) of a Caruso opera can bring as much as $200 depending on its condition. These old records were recorded on one side only to help preserve the acetate finish.

There are two companies that can advise you on the value of individual records or collections. They are: General Radio Service, 222 West Baltimore St., Baltimore, Md.; and the Record Album, 254 West 81st St., New York, N.Y. Once you've determined a record's approximate value, you can advertise in your local paper to see if any collectors will bite.



Q—We moved into a new home that has a gas range. Whenever it's in use, my eyes burn. Would a fan or a charcoal filter fix this up? —M.K., Longmont, Colo.

A—Call your gas company to check out your equipment. Gas itself is oderless. Companies put in something to give it a smell as a warning. If it's not the gas, an exhaust fan can be a big help. Fans should have an outside vent to be effective. When working properly they can get rid of a lot of greasy dirt, keep the temperature even and eliminate smells before they permeate the home.

Continue Grenade Probe

SALINA, Kan. (AP) — An investigation headed by the FBI continues today into a live hand grenade mailed Tuesday to a Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. employe here.

The grenade was deactivated by a Ft. Riley bomb squad a little more than two hours after it was received at the phone company. Authorities said the employe realized what the package contained as it was unwrapped and Salina police and the FBI were notified.

The bomb squad summoned from Ft. Riley, about 50 miles away, deactivated the grenade in the alley behind the phone company. Dick Berger, district manager for Bell, said part of the building was cleared of all personnel for a time but telephone service was not interrupted.

Authorities said the grenade was foreign made but with an American-made detonator. The pin had been pulled and the detonator was held in place with a short piece of string.

A spokesman for the bomb squad said the grenade contained black powder and possibly could have exploded.

Farming Progress Forecast

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Dr. Floyd W. Smith, director of the Kansas Agricultural Experiment Station, said Tuesday the next quarter century will see continued progress in farming.

Dr. Smith said he is forecasting continued progress on the assumption that continued research and development are allowed in the fertilizer industry and other agriculture chemicals; there is better understanding of natural resources and that water use efficiency will improve as rapidly as has efficiency in use of fertilizers since 1947.

Smith said Kansas farmers, combining fertilizer usage throughout the state with irrigation in western areas, produced more corn this year on 1.25 million acres than was produced on 7.3 million acres 40 years ago.

He said corn yields in 1946 were only 22 bushels per acre, compared with a projected 101 bushels per acre average for 1972.

Smith said increased use of fertilizers has increased wheat production efficiency 70 per cent and noted Kansas farmers will produce nearly $1.25 billion of crops in 1972.

In his address to the 25th annual meeting of the Kansas Fertilizer and Agricultural Chemical Conference here Tuesday, Smith paid tribute to the late Kenneth A. Spencer for promoting fertilizer development and use in Kansas.

Smith said Spencer's dreams for a major industrial development in Kansas, and the desires of Dr. Harold E. Myers, head of the Kansas State University Department of Agronomy in 1947, for cooperative efforts among industry and Kansas State University paved the way for "epochal agricultural transformation".

Opening lead—♠ K

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South's six no-trump call was one of those match point duplicate bids. He wanted the extra match points that success in a no-trump slam would bring.

Unfortunately for his match point score, South worked out a way to go down five tricks. It was easy for him to do this because south was one of those unlucky experts.

He won the spade lead and led a diamond to his ace. West false-carded with the 10-spot and South went into a trance. Could that 10 be a singleton?

South decided to try to get some sort of count. He played his ace-king of clubs and East dropped a spade. That marked West with five clubs.

Now South played the king and ace of hearts and West dropped a club on the second heart lead.

South's next play was to cash dummy's queen of clubs, which produced a heart discard from East.

Now he had to go after diamonds and, after a series of agonizing headshakes, he finessed the nine. West took his jack and East and West gathered in the rest of the tricks.

An ordinary player would not have fallen for that 10 of diamonds play. In fact, he would probably have ignored it entirely.

A real expert would also have taken the right line.

West was not vulnerable. In order for that 10 of diamonds to be a singleton, West would have held six spades and would surely have stuck in some sort of spade overcall.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

♥♣CARD Sense♠♦

The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
		1 ♣	1 ♥
2 ♣	Pass	Pass	2 ♥
3 ♣	Pass	Pass	?

You, South, hold:

♠ 2 ♥ A Q 9 8 7 5 ♦ A 3 2 ♣ K Q 7

What do you do now?

A—Pass. Your partner probably has a long string of spades and very few high cards. You will probably beat three clubs, but a double is bad percentage.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of passing over two clubs, your partner has bid two spades. East has bid three clubs. What do you do now?

Full State Aid Goal Of Filed Amendments

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Full state aid could be provided to parochial and other private schools on the same basis as public schools under four constitutional amendments proposed by Rep. Eric F. Fink, R-Ballwin.

Another measure prefiled Tuesday for the general legislative session beginning Jan. 3 would replace present county prosecutors with a fulltime district attorney in every judicial district in outstate Missouri.

Fink's resolutions would require that no state aid could be given to schools teaching religion primarily or to schools which have any kind of religious services.

By accepting local, state or federal aid, the private and parochial schools would come under supervision of the State Board of Education.

The District Attorney Bill was sponsored by Sens. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, A. Clifford Jones, R-Brentwood, and Ike Skelton, D-Lexington.

The new district attorneys would serve four-year terms and would be paid $28,000 a year, the same as circuit judges. They would have to give full time to their jobs and could not engage in private law practice.

The cost was estimated at $602,000 for the first partial fiscal year and $1,204,000 a year thereafter.

Jones also introduced legislation he has sponsored before—a bill to give 18-year-olds the same rights and duties now applying to adults over 21.

That would include about 150 items, including the right to buy and consume alcoholic drinks, make contracts, marry and divorce without parental consent, sue and be sued, and others.

A similar bill has been introduced in the House.

Fink also sponsored a bill to provide lifetime hunting, fishing or combination hunting and fishing licenses to anyone who has lived in the state for six months and paid a fee of $150.

The Conservation Commission would have to invest the revenue from such licenses in U.S. securities or other securities under the same restrictions applying to the investments of state banks.

Fink also submitted a bill exempting buses carrying less than 13 passengers and weighing less than 9,000 pounds from being classed as commercial vehicles. Operators of the buses would pay no special commercial vehicle license fee.

Jones also prefiled a senate bill to allow vacant municipal property to be annexed by an adjoining municipality on approval of the governing bodies of both cities without a popular vote.

Wheat Crop Value Soared in 1972

By DON KENDALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1972 wheat crop, counting government payments, is worth more than $3.4 billion to farmers, says the Agriculture Department.

On that basis, the average value of wheat this year was $2.23 per bushel, compared with $1.89 in 1971, the USDA said Tuesday in a year-end crop report.

The gross value, up from 1971's total of $3.05 billion because of sharply higher market prices, eclipsed the old record of $3.1 billion set in 1947. But the unit price was higher then — $2.29 per bushel.

Soaring exports this year, led by 400 million bushels sold to the Soviet Union, resulted in the highest wheat market prices in a decade. The average rose from $1.32 per bushel last July to $1.97 in November.

This year's wheat crop was more than 1.54 million bushels, down from the record of 1.6 billion in 1971. Production in 1947 was 1.36 billion bushels and was in large demand to help feed postwar nations.

But the government wheat program was much different in those days and included a price-support loan rate that year of $1.84 per bushel. There was no additional direct payment.

Now, to help offset a lower loan of $1.25 per bushel, cooperating farmers get supplemental payments on part of their crop.

Even without government payments included, 1972 wheat averaged $1.67 per bushel on the market, compared with $1.34 in 1971, the report said.

On that basis, the crop was worth nearly $2.6 billion, compared with less than $2.2 billion last year.

There were no production estimates or value figures for corn or soybeans. They will be announced Jan. 15 and will reflect recent losses to those crops from snow and rain during this fall's harvest.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Soybean Association says an Agriculture Department decision announced this week to shoot for 5.2 million acres of beans next year could backfire and hurt farmers.

Harold Keuhn, ASA president, said Tuesday in a statement issued here and in Hudson, Iowa, that his group favored a lower acreage goal.

"We hope USDA has knowledge of additional markets to absorb the extra production," Keuhn said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers still holding ownership of 242.7 million bushels of wheat and 2.4 million bushels of corn under the Agriculture Department's "reseal" program will have to turn loose of the grain by next summer.

The department has decided not to continue the reseal program beyond 1973 loan maturity dates for grain held under extended price supports.

Wheat stored on farms dating back to 1968 production will be put into the market, with 1970 and 1971 wheat stored in commercial warehouses.

Farm-stored corn from 1969 to 1970, with 1971 warehouse-stored grain, also will have to be released.

Stores of barley, oats, grain sorghum and rye from some recent crops also will be called up at the end of the storage year, officials said.

In an allied development, the department has tightened loan programs for financing farm grain storage and drying facilities.

Among the changes is a reduction in the loan maximum from $35,000 to $25,000.

Unit Training Assembly Is Planned Here

Sedalia's HHB, 135th Artillery Group, Missouri National Guard, will conduct a multiple unit training assembly Saturday and Sunday at the Armory, Ninth and Ohio.

The 125 participants will receive formal instruction in air observer techniques, principles of photography, operation of turbine engines, material readiness, artillery fire planning, field communications, mess management and food preparation.

Instructors for the assembly will be Capt. Robert Bustamente, Capt. Donald Pyatt, Lt. Larry Schupp, CSM Marvin Hopper, SSG Larry Albertin, Sp-4 Billy Byram and Sp-5 Richard Clark.

Tiny Schoolhouse Is Now Too Big

HOOSICK FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — The tiny old frame schoolhouse once attended by Anna Mary Robertson "Grandma" Moses proved too big to go under a bridge Tuesday. It was being moved to Bennington, Vt., to the Grandma Moses Museum.

So the schoolhouse was hoisted over the bridge above the Boston & Maine Railroad tracks in North Hoosick.

Grandma Moses, who began painting when she was 78, became famous for her primitive style. Her paintings of scenes from her youth in Washington and Rensselaer counties hang in many art museums.

Airplane Arrival Hazard For Santa

PHENIX CITY, Ala. (AP) — Perhaps Santa had better stick to sliding down chimneys instead of jumping out of airplanes.

The jolly old man and two of his sidekicks planned to parachute into a shopping center here Tuesday, but things didn't go quite as planned.

One of his elves landed on target but another landed in a drainage ditch, and St. Nick, also uninjured, was found a half mile away dangling from a clothes line.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance Prorated on

Students Invade German School

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP) — Two hundred students invaded a lecture hall at Heidelberg University, hung red flags from the windows and painted revolutionary slogans on the walls.

A gray-haired professor tried to restore order, telling them, "After all, I don't go barging into your rooms."

The students jeered, and the professor walked out in disgust.

"Professors must finally realize that Heidelberg University is no longer their private property," one young German declared.

The student revolt has come to 587-year-old Heidelberg University, Germany's oldest. Sigmund Romberg's uniformed Student Prince has been displaced by the militant in blue jeans and olive drab battle jacket demanding a bigger voice in university policy.

Hit-and-run attacks last month on law professors resulted in closing of the law school for the remainder of the semester.

The university's liberal rector resigned when the Baden-Wuerttemburg state government named two conservatives as deputy rectors. Last Wednesday the state government struck again, sending 1,000 police to close the campus for a day to prevent a leftist teach-in featuring Peter Brueckner, a psychology professor suspended from Hannover University for allegedly aiding the anarchist Baader-Meinhof Gang.

"The reactionary authorities made an obvious political blunder," said Christian Blauth, 25-year-old political adviser to the ultra-left ASTA student committee. "Thousands of students heard Brueckner speak off campus, and then they joined our five-day strike to protest the police action."

Prof. Adalbert Podlech of the law faculty agreed that the government's action helped the rebels.

"The extremists had alienated most students with their irrational demands," he said, "but the moderates felt threatened by the police so they showed their solidarity with the strike."

The strike ended Tuesday with a student rally at which ASTA leaders said demonstrations would be held next Monday when the university senate elects a new rector.

McNally Guilty Of Air Piracy

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A U.S. District Court jury of ten women and two men convicted Martin J. McNally of Wyandotte, Mich., on two counts of air piracy here Tuesday evening in connection with the hijacking of two American Airlines jets at Lambert-St. Louis International Airport June 23.

McNally, 28, showed no emotion when the verdict was announced, thanked Judge John K. Regan who heard the case and raised two fingers in a Churchillian victory sign as U.S. marshals led him from the courtroom. He was to be taken Wednesday to Springfield, Mo., where he would be evaluated by federal correctional officials.

Judge Regan said he would issue a sentence in 90 days. The penalty for air piracy is 20 years to life in prison.

Frederick H. Mayer, the convicted hijacker's court-appointed defense attorney said he would file an appeal Wednesday on the grounds that a pre-trial motion for a change of venue was denied and prosecution evidence submitted was "illegally seized at McNally's home" on June 28 when he was arrested.

McNally was accused of demanding $502,500 in ransom when he hijacked a New York to Tulsa, Okla., flight after it left St. Louis June 23. The hijacker, who was armed with a .45-caliber machine gun, was given the money and two parachutes when the plane again landed here.

The hijacker and crew members were set to takeoff again when a car smashed into the wheels of the aircraft on the runway, disabling the ship. A second jet was commandeered and was ordered flown to Toronto by the hijacker.

The driver of the car, David J. Hanley of Florissant was charged by the government with willfully damaging and wrecking a civil aircraft and is awaiting trial on the charges.

The hijacker parachuted from the plane over northern Indiana early June 24. Most of the ransom money was recovered in a farm field near Peru, Ind., along with a coat and gun the hijacker used.

Walter J. Petlikowsky, 31, of Ecorse, Mich., has pleaded guilty to a charge of being an accessory in the hijacking. He was accused of driving McNally to St. Louis and picking him up in Peru.

Robert B. Schneider, assistant U.S. Attorney, told the jury in his final arguments that fingerprints of McNally's on a hijack note and on a telephone in a Peru motel room were the strongest points against him. The note was found in the steps of the hijacked plane when it was inspected by FBI agents in Chicago.

The jury deliberated about an hour before returning the guilty verdicts.

Reveal 'Secret' Encyclical

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The National Catholic Reporter says Pope Pius XI commissioned the draft of a papal encyclical in June of 1938 attacking racism and anti-semitism.

The independent weekly newspaper published here by laymen, says publication of the document would have broken the much criticized Vatican silence on the persecution of Jews in Europe before and during World War II.

American Jesuit John LaFarge was commissioned to write the encyclical draft 15 months before the outbreak of World War II.

A LaFarge collaborator, the Reporter said, German Jesuit Father Gustave Gundlach, later charged the work was withheld from the Pope for political reasons by the Jesuit superior general, Father Wlodimir Ledochowski because he feared its publication would give Russia an excuse to invade Poland.

The Reporter also said the document appeared to have been involved in another Vatican situation concerning charges made in memoirs of the late Cardinal Eugene Tisserant. He contended Pius XI was assassinated by an agent of Italian dictator Benito Mussolini to prevent the Pope from openly denouncing Fascism in a speech planned for Feb. 11, 1939. Pius XI died the night before.

The encyclical draft was said to have been entitled "Humani Generis Unitas," the Unity of the Human Race. It was not clear, the Reporter said, whether Pius XI ever saw the completed document before he died of a heart attack at the age of 81.

The bulk of the material for its article, the Reporter said, came from the papers of Father LaFarge, a former editor of the Jesuit magazine, "America." LaFarge died in 1963 at the age of 83.

Plan To Study New Cancer Lead

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Cancer Institute, in a cautiously worded statement, says it plans to evaluate a possible new lead in cancer research stemming from an Italian scientist's findings in virus studies.

The NCI learned of the Italian's work from Dr. Albert Sabin, the developer of oral polio vaccine.

Both scientists have been working with "herpes simplex" viruses that cause common cold sores in humans, the NCI said.

The Italian scientist is Dr. Giulio Tarro of the University of Naples, and the NCI said it is inviting him to the United States to work in an institute laboratory to confirm his most recent findings.

But the NCI, in a statement issued in response to a query, said:

"The preliminary nature of this finding should be emphasized. The initial scientific procedures must now be repeated and extended before any definite conclusions can be drawn."

The institute added, however:

"If confirmed, immunological techniques developed by Drs. Tarro and Sabin might provide a means to establish a relationship between human herpes simplex viruses and certain cancers, and may provide a means for the early detection of some types of cancer. At present, it has not been proved that herpes simplex viruses can cause cancer in humans . . . ."

The NCI said Dr. Tarro began to study the possible role of such viruses in human cancer in 1966 while working with Dr. Sabin, then at the University of Cincinnati but now president of the Weizmann Institute of Science in Rehovot, Israel.

Heroin Addicts See Big Increase

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The estimated number of heroin addicts in the United States has multiplied 12 times in the last 10 years, an official of the Justice Department's Office of National Narcotics Intelligence reports.

Dan McAuliffe told the annual convention of the National Association of Citizen Crime Commissions Tuesday there are an estimated 600,000 heroin addicts in the country today, as compared with 50,000 ten years ago.

Layoffs Damage Talk About Space

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — "No," says the woman, "you don't hear much space talk around here anymore. They want to talk about girls and drinking."

This in the space capital of the world? With two men walking on the moon?

"They want to get away from the space talk," the woman went on. "All the layoffs — it's kind of damaged their spirits ... And there's going to be more layoffs. That's not helping things."

If the professional people watchers are correct, America is losing interest in space these days, having watched 10 men on the moon before Apollo 17. Now it's football and Christmas shopping.

"The interest in Apollo peaked during the last two flights," a network television executive said last week, explaining a sharp cutback in special programming on the flight.

But you figure this community, nurtured by the space movement, is an outpost where a "bird" has no wings and "rover" is not a dog.

The lights of the Manned Spacecraft Center glow across the street as the woman talker, a barmaid, mixes drinks for a group of new customers.

Nobody bothers to turn on television to a local channel carrying the complete color broadcasts of Apollo 17 from the moon.

Four years ago Apollo 8 flew to the moon and the Space Center went wild. It was Christmastime, but few noticed.

It wasn't the same for 17, 11th and final of the series.

At a fashionable club along NASA 1, the space community's main highway, a viewer switched the TV from a pro football game to the moonwalk of Apollo 17.

But not for long.

The other customers demanded football. They easily won.

There is still celebration of course. Friends gather at the homes of astronauts to watch the flights. There are posters advertising traditional splashdown parties.

Mission Control hums with excitement. Space agency officials speak optimistically of the future. But the average guy on the street seems removed.

Where once hung a "Go Apollo" sign, there's now a pop prayer: "Bless This Mess."

News of the moon flight didn't make the front page of a Houston newspaper early this week.

Beate Fuzzell, who has been here only a year, said the moon program "still blows my mind."

But for others, she feels, "the novelty has all worn off. The launch was delayed, you know. Well, when it finally went off, I yelled 'Whoopee, they're off!'"

She said her companions looked at her "like I was nuts."

The bust of Abraham Lincoln on the grounds of the Illinois Capitol in Springfield takes on a new shape following one of the worst ice storms in years. The ice snarled traffic and downed tree limbs throughout Central Illinois, just as it did in Central Missouri. (UPI)

Work To Restore Service

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Union Electric Co., crews worked into the early morning hours in the St. Louis area Wednesday in an effort to restore electric service to more than 15,000 customers who were without power following a severe ice storm that caused power lines to snap.

During a 24-hour period which ended late Tuesday, more than 100,000 customers were without electric service, a company spokesman said.

UE said 650 men had been added to normal emergency crews to fight the effects of the storm, but that repair operations were being hampered by slick streets. More than 1,500 tons of salt were poured on the city streets late Monday and Tuesday during the height of the ice storm, Paul Spelbrink, street director, said.

Most businesses halted operations and other major firms reported absentee rates from ten to 30 per cent. The United States Postal Service stopped some deliveries Tuesday because "It was just too icy for the carriers to negotiate sidewalks," a spokesman said.

POLAROID
COLORPACK 108 FILM

$3.47 Limit 3 packs

Polacolor Land film type 108 for Polaroid instant color pictures. For daylight or flash. Eight 3¼ x 4¼ prints.

Polaroid guarantees every picture you take with this camera.

If you don't like it, you can take another one free.

If you buy one of Polaroid's Focused Flash cameras, every picture you take this year will be guaranteed. It's true. Polaroid guarantees you'll be delighted with all the pictures you take – or you'll get free film to take them over again.

Here's how it works: You'll receive a booklet of coupons when you purchase your camera. Each one entitles you to replace your Colorpack Land film if you judge the pictures you take to be unsatisfactory.

Polaroid can offer this unusual guarantee – because the Focused Flash cameras are the finest and most automatic cameras they make. Focused Flash keeps your flash shots from coming out too light or too dark. An electric eye and electronic shutter automatically control your other shots. Indoors or out, there's never an exposure calculation to be concerned with.

There are four models to choose from, packed with features, and they all take guaranteed pictures.
